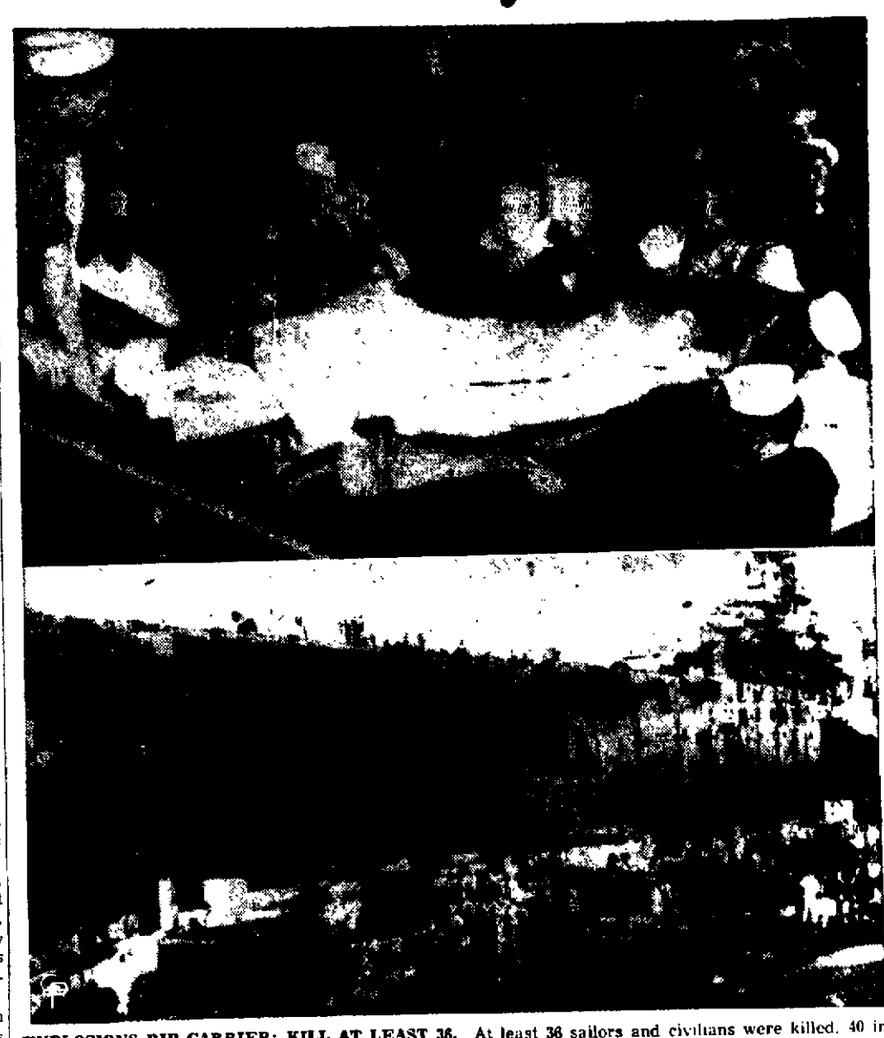
Death Count Climbs to 36 In Blast and Flash Fire on Carrier Leyte; 40 Injured



EXPLOSIONS RIP CARRIER; KILL AT LEAST 36. At least 36 sailors and civilians were killed, 40 injured and scores were missing when the aircraft carrier, Leyte, was ripped by explosions in shipyard drydock in Boston's worst waterfront tragedy. One of the injured (top) is being removed by stretcher while (bottom) ambulances and fire engines converge on the stricken vessel in the shipyard annex. The 27,000-ton vessel was rocked first by an explosion near the number two hold. This was followed by a series of electrical blasts.

34-Year-Old Father of 7 Dies in Crash

Daniel King Becomes County's 16th Traffic Victim; Car Hits Train

A Marion County father of seven children died last night as a result of injuries suffered when a car in which he was riding was demolished after hitting the side of a passing freight train.

He was Daniel King, 34, a tenant farmer of County Road 26, north of Marion. He was the 16th [illegible] Marion County traffic fatality this year.

The accident occurred at about 9 last night at the Pennsylvania Railroad crossing on County Road 195, about seven miles north of Marion.

Severe Internal Injuries

King was pronounced dead upon his arrival at Marion City Hospital. Death resulted from severe shock and internal injuries, the state highway patrol reported.

Another passenger in the car, James Haney, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Estill Haney of near Caledonia, received multiple cuts, a fractured left hand and a possible fracture of the pelvis. He is in City Hospital where his condition was reported "fair" this morning.

Train Stopped at Crossing

The driver of the car, John A. Knotts, 23, of Waldo, received cuts and bruises on the body.

The state patrol reported that Knotts was going east and apparently drove into the side of the train which was at the crossing.

The train was stopped. The engineer was W. E. Fulton, 56, of Columbus. The train was undamaged. No charges have been filed.

7 Children Survive

Surviving in King's immediate family are his wife Mary and seven children, Stella, 2, Carl and Carlis, 4, Wayne, 6, Ray, 7, and a stepdaughter, Ileen Jordan, 15, all at home, and a step-son Gordon Parker, 20, with the Army in Germany.

King was an Army veteran of World War II. He was a native of Kentucky and a resident of Marion County for about one year.

Final funeral arrangements are awaiting the arrival of relatives from out of town.

Two Injured in Marion

Two persons were injured in one of four traffic accidents in the city today and Friday.

Larry Milakovich, 27, of 443 N. Prospect St., a state highway patrolman, and Ralph E. Boger, 31, of near Caledonia both suffered knee injuries in a mishap at S. Prospect St. and Hawthorne Ave. today at 2:40 a.m.

The Milakovich and Boger cars, stopped on S. Prospect St., were hit by a car driven by Carl Daniels, 24, of near Richwood which was also headed north.

Daniels was arrested by Milakovich on a charge of driving while intoxicated. He was fined $100 and costs, sentenced to five days in the county jail and given a three years' suspension of his

Sen. McCarthy Summons 3 in Spy Ring Probe

Closed Session To Get Testimony on Alleged Espionage Activities

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) summoned into closed hearings today three witnesses who reportedly were named by an Army employe said to have promised to "tell all" about a radar spy ring.

McCarthy called a special Saturday session of his Senate Permanent investigations subcommittee, saying it was most important to question the trio following the Army employe's testimony yesterday concerning an alleged espionage ring at Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

Today's witnesses are understood to include present and former employes at Ft. Monmouth.

An indication of the importance McCarthy attached to today's session was his indefinitely deferring a visit to the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., to question David Greenglass, brother-in-law of executed atom spy Julius Rosenberg.

McCarthy has described Rosenberg as mastermind of a spy ring at Ft. Monmouth, Army Signal Corps headquarters of America's top secret radar defense against atomic attack.

Yesterday's testimony at a closed session of the subcommittee came from the Army employe who, McCarthy said, broke down and then admitted lying and agreed to tell what he knew about Rosenberg espionage.

The senator did not identify the employe, saying only that he is an "important employe" of the Ft. Monmouth laboratories. McCarthy told newsmen:

"We have placed the witness in the protective custody of this committee, and I wish you would not if you know his name, publish it, because he is afraid of his own personal safety, in fact his life and the safety of his family."

McCarthy, asserting he is sending a transcript of the subcommittee testimony to the FBI, declared that the witness "talked about members of the Rosenberg spy ring and said he knew Rosenberg very well."

The development came after a week of closed hearings here in the McCarthy group's probe of possible espionage at Ft. Monmouth, where 10 civilian employes reportedly have been suspended recently for security reasons.

President Ends Midwest Tour, On Way South

Eisenhower To Help New Orleans Mark Historic Observance

KANSAS CITY (AP)—President Eisenhower flies south today to help New Orleans celebrate the 150th anniversary of the Louisiana Purchase.

The President leaves the Midwest farm belt (7 a. m. EST) after two days of speech-making, plan-drafting and earnest conferring with farmers and cattlemen beset by drought and price problems.

His arrival in New Orleans, which already was in the midst of an out of season Mardi Gras, was set for 10 a. m. (EST) and, after a gala parade, Eisenhower was to speak in front of the city's old Spanish City Hall.

He did a little speaking last night—after a brief visit to Abilene, Kan., where he roamed through his boyhood home and delighted the citizenry by kissing a long ago sweetheart, Mrs. Gladys Brooks, in the middle of a main street.

The occasion for last night's speech was the dedication of a new headquarters for the American Hereford Assn.

And "Hereford," the President told a chuckling audience of cattlemen and their friends, is properly pronounced "Herford" and not "Hairford" as some very culti-

3 Block-Long Buildings in Oakland Burn

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—A roaring five-alarm fire destroyed three huge block-long buildings on the Oakland waterfront last night, including one said to contain 10 million dollars worth of government property bound for Korea and the Far East.

Robert J. Cooney, owner of Allied Enterprises, said a razed warehouse owned by his firm contained 10 million dollars worth of food for Korea and post exchange items for American troops stationed in the Pacific. Other damage was estimated as at least two million.

The huge blaze still smouldered today, although 200 firemen and a fireboat and Coast Guard and auxiliary craft brought it under control by 10 p. m. (1 a. m., EST).

The fire broke out about 8:30 p. m. following an explosion in the Hurley Marine Works at the foot of 5th Ave. In the next hour and a half flames were visible over almost the entire San Francisco Bay area.

Besides the three main four-story buildings destroyed, numerous sheds and shacks owned by the Port of Oakland and leased to various industrial firms, were consumed by the fire.

Thousands flocked to the scene, hopelessly jamming the nearby Eastshore Freeway.

Bricker on Tour Of South America

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Bricker (R—Ohio) will be spending the next seven weeks in Central and South America.

Security Pact Parley With Russians Seen

Big 3 Agrees To Talk Over Matter as Part Of German Settlement

LONDON (AP)—The United States, Britain and France agreed today to discuss an East-West security system with Russia as part of a final German peace settlement, informed sources reported.

They said foreign ministers of the three powers approved terms of new notes which will be sent to Moscow within about the next 48 hours suggesting a Big Four [illegible] conference in Lugano, Switzerland, about Nov. 9.

Last minute revisions were made to satisfy West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, who objected to an earlier draft of the Western notes.

Begin Fourth Session

Word leaked out from the closed conference as U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault and their advisers went into their fourth session with British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden at the foreign office. The ministers are in the throes of a three-day parley on pressing world problems.

The Western notes reportedly will also suggest that the four foreign ministers should set out to complete an independence treaty for Austria at Lugano. They will be answering a Soviet communication of Sept. 26.

Committees at Work

Special committees for the three ministers carried on at the same time, hammering out a common policy on the fresh flareup in the Middle East between Israel and Jordan and the explosive Trieste question.

It was announced, meantime, that Prof. Walter Hallstein, West German foreign under secretary, would arrive here late today to lay Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's views on the Russian question before the Big Three.

In addition to the non-agression pact, the ministers faced decisions on several other touchy problems as they neared the half-way mark of their three-day session. Among these were:

1. An urgent British proposal to bring an Israel attack on three border Jordan villages before the United Nations Security Council. Fifty-six Arabs reportedly were killed in the assault which Britain blasted yesterday as "apparently calculated."

2. Practical means of allaying Yugoslav anger over Trieste in view of the ministers' reported agreement last night to stand by the British-American announcement that Italy would be given Zone A of that strategic territory.

Work on Notes to Russia

The ministers also must put finishing touches on drafts of British, French and American notes to the Soviet Union calling for a Big Four foreign ministers' meeting Nov. 9 at Lugano, Switzerland, to discuss a final Austrian settlement and German unification. These drafts say a five-power parley with Communist China sitting in—as proposed by Russia last month—could await a Korean settlement.

A non-agression pact offer—to guarantee Russia's security in return for a green light on reunification and looking toward free elections throughout Germany—could be made in these notes.

The Big Three discussed the proposal yesterday but reportedly

Jordan-Israeli Border Tense After Attack

JERUSALEM, Jordan Sector (AP)—Jordan appealed to Iraq for troops planes and arms today and issued orders to its army to shoot on sight any Israeli troops crossing the tense border.

The appeal to Baghdad came as the Jordan Cabinet went into emergency session to plan the next step in the border crisis that arose with an Israeli raid on three Jordan villages.

A spokesmen for Gen. John Glubb, the colorful Briton who commands Jordan's Arab legion, said the shoot-on-sight order had gone out all along the border.

Jordan spokesmen said yesterday that 56 Arabs were killed in the assault Wednesday but unofficial reports here today put the estimated death toll at 70. In a hot protest to Israel, Britain blasted the attack as "apparently caculated" and British Foreign Secretary Eden asked the Big Three foreign ministers to cite Israel before the Security Council.

The ministers, including U. S. Secretary of State Dulles and French Foreign Secretary Bidault, however, postponed a decision on the request.

Theft Suspect Being Held by Police at Lima

Suitcase Found With Money Thought Stolen From Wheeling Home

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—A suspect in the theft of $100,000 cash from the home of a Wheeling, W. Va., physician was held in jail here today for questioning.

Police Inspector Don Miller said Lima and Wheeling officers are questioning Phillip Anderson, 46, about the burglary of the home of Dr. W. P. Sammons Tuesday. They found $36,435 in a suitcase Anders had checked at the Lima Railway Express Agency.

Anderson, who gave his home as Dallas, Tex., but said he operated a business in Iowa and California, was arrested here on automobile license numbers supplied by Wheeling authorities.

Two Arrested in Dallas

Early today Dallas police said they took $30,000 today from two Dallas men they arrested in connection with the robbery.

Corpus Christi, Tex., officers, meanwhile, seized another $30,000 from a plane there after being notified of the loot's whereabouts by Dallas officers.

The men arrested in Texas on an anonymous tip told Dallas police the man apprehended in Ohio had driven the car used in the robbery of Sammons residence.

A 44-year-old Dallas man told Capt. P. B. Leach of the Dallas police that he and a 34-year-old companion had tied up the sister of Dr. Sammons and a maid at the house and had looted a chest containing the money.

Had No Gun

Capt. Leach quoted the 44-year-old man saying that the pair had no gun when the robbery was committed but pretended to have one. Leach said the Dallas men paid a West Virginia woman some money—an unspecified amount—for information concerning Dr. Sammons, his home and the fact he kept a large amount of cash there.

The money recovered in Texas was in $10 and $20 bills hidden in the bottom of a steel tool chest buried in a pile of dirty laundry.

After the pair were taken to jail, a plane ticket, indicating the younger man had just returned to Dallas from Corpus Christi, was

Pike Murder Suspect Under Constant Guard

GREENSBURG, Pa. (AP) — John Wesley Wable, a 24-year-old man who police say admits participating in the slaying of two sleeping truckers on the Pennsylvania Turnpike, remained under 24-hour guard here today as he faced more grilling.

Wable was placed in jail last night a few minutes after he pleaded innocent to two murder charges. He was ordered held without bond. His case goes before the November grand jury. If indicted he probably will be tried soon after.

Wable's shoelaces and belt were taken away from him. A special guard was assigned to sleep in his cell. Another guard was ordered to check the cell every 15 minutes.

"We're taking no chances with him," said Warden William R. Hohn.

Police declined to comment further on the statement they said Wable wrote in longhand while he was en route here from Albuquerque, N. M., where he was captured last Sunday. In that statement, according to Maj. Andrew J. Hudock of the Pennsylvania State Police, Wable said he "patricipated" in the slayings—but did not kill—Harry F. Pitts, 39, of Bowling Green, Va., and Lester B. Woodward, 39, of Duncannon, Pa., last July.

Both men were shot as they slept in the cabs of their parked trucks.

A few days later, near Lisbon, Ohio, 34-year-old John K. Shepard of West Alexander, Pa., was wounded in the head while sleeping in the cab of his parked truck a

Dr. Peale Addresses Ohio Wesleyan Audience

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP)—Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, pastor of the Marble Collegiate Church in New York City, calls that city "the tension capital of the United States."

"There are 12 psychiatrists on the staff of his church, he told an Ohio Wesleyan University homecoming audience yesterday.

He advised students that if they haven't yet decided on their life work they should look into the "headache industry," adding that "it's a 100 million dollar a year business."

Chinese Turn Backs on Reds; Tempers Flare

Kicks, Curses Mark Squabble Between Allies, Communists

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Bitter squabbles flared between Allied and Communist officers today as all but nine of 430 Chinese war prisoners defiantly turned their backs on Red attempts to woo them back to communism.

It was a second stinging blow to the Reds, who persuaded only 10 of 500 to return in the first day of the explanations Thursday.

There will be no explanations tomorrow under Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission rules.

The dramatic Allied-Communist tug of war reached fever pitch, not only in the clashes between the prisoners and their Red explainers—but between U. N. Command and Red Observers.

A bitter flareup, punctuated by kicks and curses, flamed over one anti-Red Chinese POW who was forced to listen to Communist explainers for almost three hours.

A total of 1,000 Chinese were

1,400 Men Reported on Board Ship

Vessel in Boston For Repairs; Cause of Explosion Not Known

BOSTON (AP)—Naval intelligence and FBI investigators today probed the charred interior of the aircraft carrier Leyte which was struck suddenly yesterday by explosions and searing fire that took 36 lives.

As a minute examination of the wreckage got underway the Navy announced a board of inquiry will convene Monday morning to try to determine the cause of the blast that has brought demands for quick investigation by two Massachusetts members of Congress.

Sabotage Suggested

A Navy spokesman said any investigation of possible civilian sabotage is in the province of the FBI which had no comment. Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers (R-Mass) in a telegram to the secretary of the Navy suggested that special attention be given to sabotage.

In a message to Defense Secretary Wilson Rep. Thomas F. Lane (D-Mass) said he was at a loss to understand how such a tragedy could occur in the naval shipyard.

Forty men were injured, many critically.

The blast occurred forward on the port side of the big, 27,500-ton carrier that cost 90 million dollars when she was launched at Newport News, Va., in 1945. Unofficial reports said 1,400 officers and men were on board when tragedy struck.

Worst Since 1924

It was the worst Navy explosion in peacetime since 48 men died aboard the battleship Mississippi off the California coast June 12, 1924.

A court of inquiry was expected to be convened by Vice Adm. John J. Ballentine, Atlantic Fleet air commander.

The 856-foot-long Leyte, docked for overhaul after combat action off Korea in October-December, 1950, came here last December and was almost ready to go to sea again. She had been out for a trial run only Wednesday.

Cause Not Known

The cause of the blast was not known. The Leyte's skipper, Capt. Thomas A. Ahroon, 46, of Norfolk, Va., in command of the ship less than three weeks, said the fire may have started on the deck immediately below the hangar deck.

But he could not be sure, it happened so fast.

In his cabin when the blast shook the ship—"a dull rumble like a subway train going through"—

Ohio Seaman Injured

The only Ohio man reported dead or injured in the Leyte blast was Joseph W. Theobald, Findlay seaman. He was included on the list of seriously injured. A list of the dead is on Page 18.

Cites Lend-Lease Program

Army 'Has No Evidence' Secret Data Was Stolen

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army said today it still has no evidence that microfilm copies of secret data from its Ft. Monmouth, N. J., Signal Corps laboratory have fallen into hands of Communists in Germany.

Under wartime lend-lease arrangements, the Army said in response to questions, free exchange of information with allied nations was authorized.

Thus it indicated belief that if any microfilm copies of Signal Corps documents are in Communist hands they probably are some given the Russians during the period of World War II cooperation.

Spy Ring Reported

Chairman McCarthy (R-Wis) of the Senate investigations subcommittee has said closed door hearings in New York uncovered evidence of a spy ring at Ft. Monmouth, U. S. radar defense headquarters.

McCarthy has described Julius Rosenberg, executed last summer as a Red spy, as the ring's former mastermind and has said the ring may still be active.

The replies provided by the Army today constituted its first discussion of the renewed charges of filched documents.

No Evidence of Tampering

The Army had said more than a year ago that there was then "no evidence that any documents have been compromised or that files have been tampered with in the Signal Corps intelligence agency."

Today, in answer to questions by a newsman, a spokesman said he was authorized to say:

"The statement made in 1952

Many Badly Injured

Survivors Tell of Blast, Horror of Burning Ship

BOSTON (AP)—A critically burned 31-year-old Navy pilot lay in Boston City Hospital last night and matter-of-factly told his story as doctors and nurses fought to save his life.

He said his name was Leonard Derosier. He's a lieutenant. He used to live in East Greenwich, R. I.; now he lives in Athens, Ga. He's a pilot aboard the explosion-racked carrier Leyte.

Hears Explosion

"I was going to give a report to the operations office," he said. "I heard an explosion. Maybe it was the catapult machine room. I don't know."

He tried to move his right foot, the one to which a plasma bottle was attached.

"Better keep that leg still," a doctor ordered. "You can move the other one."

"I felt a blast of hot air rush over me," Derosier continued. "I dove to the deck and stayed flat.

"There was another officer with me. I remember he said, 'It's hot in here . . . it's unbearable.'"

A nurse placed a transparent oxygen mask over his head. He breathed deeply. He went on:

Taps Bulkhead in Code

"I tried to tap on the bulkhead in Morse code. I wanted to find out if there was anyone near me, and how they were doing.

"I don't know what happened to the officer. I don't remember too much after the flames that hit us. Somehow I found an escape hatch and got out by myself."

Doctors said Derosier was

Bringing In The Sheaves

A dance hall fiddler remembers his youth

Somewhere in rural Ohio a century ago, a fiddler played and dancers danced. Perhaps the merrymakers noticed the troubled look on the young fiddler's face. Or maybe they didn't. But, seemingly without reason and with no warning, the fiddler abruptly stopped playing, tucked his fiddle and his bow under his arm and walked out.

Knowles Shaw had just remembered something . . . something that had happened when he was 13 years old.

Knowles Shaw never played for another dance as long as he lived But he didn't quit playing his violin As an ordained minister in the Christian Church, he played his own accompaniment and sang his own hymns.

"At the feast of Belshazzar and a thousand of his Lords, While they drank from golden vessels, as the Book of Truth records."

Knowles Shaw sang his popular "The Handwriting on the Wall" and, it is said, brought 20,000 converts to the altar.

All told, Knowles Shaw wrote 114 gospel hymns. He preached and sang his songs across America . . . playing his own accompaniment on the violin he had once played in dance halls.

GIVEN BELOW is Knowles Shaw's most popular gospel song. It has been sung in every English speaking country in the world for nearly 100 years But Knowles Shaw would never have written "Bringing in the Sheaves" nor would he have preached or sang or played his songs of the church had not he remembered something while playing in a dance hall when he was 18 years old For what Knowles Shaw remembered was his father's dying words, "Son, prepare to meet God."

Sowing in the morning, sowing seeds of kindness,
Sowing in the noontide and the dewy eve;
Waiting for the harvest, and the time of reaping,
We shall come rejoicing, bringing in the sheaves.

Sowing in the sunshine, sowing in the shadows,
Fearing neither clouds nor Winter's chilling breeze;
By and by the harvest and the labor ended,
We shall come rejoicing, bringing in the sheaves.

Going forth with weeping, sowing for the Master,
Tho' the loss sustained our spirit often grieves;
When our weeping's over, He will bid us welcome,
We shall come rejoicing, bringing in the sheaves.

Chorus:
Bringing in the sheaves, bringing in the sheaves,
We shall come rejoicing bringing in the sheaves
Bringing in the sheaves, bringing in the sheaves,
We shall come rejoicing bringing in the sheaves.

Youth groups meeting in the evening include Intermediate Fellowship at 6 30 for discussion of "My Recreational Needs" with Pete Bailey, Linda Pensinger, and Bill Schnauffer as leaders, High School Fellowship topic at 7 will be "The Ideal Boy" with discussion in charge of Diana Jones, Frances Smith, and Janet Roberts. A Sermonette

By REV. CLYDE R. WENDELL
Pastor of Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church

Text, James 5:1-6

I suppose that the most damaging criticism that is leveled at so much of our religion today is not that it is untrue, but that it is irrevelant. It makes so little difference. The epistle of James is indeed a specific against the kind of religion that emphasizes creeds but forgets character, that accentuates ritual but side-steps righteousness. Perhaps the key verse of this letter might well be, "Be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deluding your own selves"

The style of James has about it an earnest practicality, coupled with an indignation at all forms of evil-doing expressed in ironical scorn, which is hardly paralleled anywhere in the New Testament In the one hundred and eight verses which make up the epistle there are fifty-four imperatives, all of which remind us that if we profess to have Christ in our hearts, there should be some outward manifestation of it in our thoughts, speech and acts

THIS SHORT LETTER abounds in terse and vivid aphorisms, and from the scenes of nature James draws many striking illustrations and metaphors which serve graphically to point up the truth he sets forth.

A great portion of the New Testament is given over to the subject of material possessions Jesus had more to say about this subject than He did about Heaven, Hell or the New Birth. What was the reason? He saw the subtle and soul-sapping influence they have upon men whose hearts become set upon them.

In this short passage James condemns the rich of being guilty on two counts: how they secured their wealth, and then how they used it These verses might well have been lifted out of the pages of Isaiah or Amos as James shows himself to be a strong champion of social righteousness, and insists that these social attitudes of the rich are but a reflection of their own inward moral condition James is so sure of the doom that will come to such folk that in prophetical style he begins to speak of it as already here. Like a prophet he has it all before his eyes.

THE WORD PICTURE James draws here shows graphically what happens when men endeavor to lay up for themselves material riches and forget God. Stores of goods are corrupted; rich garments are moth-eaten, precious metals are corroded, and in this picture their own spiritual ruin is reflected "The time will come when they will eat like a cancer and burn like a fire," and they did A few years later (70 A D) these same Jews, who are here condemned, were in Jerusalem for the Passover and there became unwilling sacrifices to God's slow but sure justice as the Romans destroyed them and the city

Undoubtedly, some of these to whom James writes were professing Christians, but being guilty of all that is spoken of them in these verses, the best we can say of them is that they were "religious sinners" and this placed them under the most severe indictment and doom that Jesus ever pronounced on any kind of sinner, "hypocrite" the one who professed to follow Him, but did not.

THERE IS NO SIN in having material possessions, if you come by them honestly, tithe them faithfully, and spend the remaining portion in ways that are pleasing to God There is no virtue in being poor. It is the lust for money, pleasure, power and all that tends to indulge the physical senses that we must guard against Riches are not a whit less perilous to the soul today than they were in the time of James, yet how few among us really believe they are perilous at all

Confident Living

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

How To Find New Energy

William James, the famous American psychologist, said "Excitement, ideas and efforts restore energy and vitality to people."

DR. PEALE

A lot of people don't feel well, don't look well, don't act well simply because they do not eagerly enter into life. They anxiously concern themselves only with themselves and thus live in an ever-narrowing circle until finally everything closes in around them. In a sense, life crushes them. These unhappy people become their own worst enemies through the debilitating mental attitudes they develop.

A minister once told me of a man in his community who would lie in bed half the morning, when finally he arose it was to be pushed around in a wheel chair. Yet his doctor told the minister that nothing was really wrong with the man except boredom and self-centeredness.

"DO YOU REALLY mean," the minister asked the doctor, "that a man can become that ill of boredom?"

"I've even seen them die of it," was the reply.

The minister visited this man regularly and learned that his withdrawal from life had originally come about because he felt he had received a "raw deal" from his employers. His consuming self-pity had taken the zest of living from him, and he had sunk into an enervating boredom.

On one of these visits, when the man was a little better than usual, the minister said to him: "I understand that, when you were in business, you wrote very good promotion letters for your firm. I would like you to write some promotional letters for the church as we need to raise some money."

THE MAN PROTESTED that he was too ill, but finally allowed himself to be persuaded and began to take a real interest in his task. Then the minister tried something else: "We need to raise a substantial sum for a new building. Your letters are so effective that I wish you were only able to go out and talk to some of the people personally. We might get some really big contributions."

The man thought for a moment. "Maybe," he said, "if my wife went along, I might be able to do it."

She did, and he obtained some sizable donations. As a result, he forgot himself and, one day, walked away from one of these calls all by himself—his wife had been talking with other members of the family in another room. He went home a new man who felt better and looked better, and was better.

TODAY, HIS minister tells me that this man who was given up by the doctors is back in a business of his own. He is active in the social, political and religious life of his community. He looks better and feels better. He is full of energy and vitality. He is a reborn person.

How did he do this? Isn't the answer obvious? He simply allowed his minister to persuade him to apply to his own case the health-giving, life-giving teachings of his religion.

The main technique for finding new energy is to channel Divine energy into yourself. God is not a theological abstraction; God is life. God is vitality. God is zest. God is health. Get God into your life and you will feel the difference in an amazing sense of well-being. You will experience energizing.

AND HOW DOES one get God in his life? First, start filling your mind with thoughts of God. Right thinking being the secret of new life, the more you think about God, the healthier your thoughts will be. Fifteen minutes every day in reading the Bible is the best of all thought conditioners. I recommend a Psalm or two a day and a page from the Gospels. Second, rid yourself of all barriers that hold back the flow of Divine energy through your being, barriers such as resentment, greed, impure thinking. Third, just put everything into God's hands and then do your best about everything.

There is a tremendous store of life-giving energy in the universe. It flows into human beings when they open themselves to receive it, and it stimulates a new and wonderful life within them.

Boys Must Shuck Corn for Damages

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS — Five teen-age youths, residing in the Mt. Zion area southwest of Bucyrus, will be kept busy this afternoon on three nearby farms husking or shocking corn, Crawford County Sheriff Elwood F. Jacobs revealed today.

The youths agreed to "work out" the damage they had done to crops on the farms as a Halloween prank, the sheriff said.

Sheriff Jacobs said the quintet knocked over shocked corn Tuesday night. They denied knowledge of the placing of eight bales of straw across the Wyandot road, two miles southwest of here Tuesday night.

Sunday Catholic Sermons Will Deal With Mission Work

On Sunday in parishes of the Catholic Church in the Marion area and the central Ohio Diocese of Columbus, sermons at all Masses will treat of the responsibility to the missions, and the latest plans and developments in their expansion. Prayers for conversions will be added in the Mass and a special collection will be made for the needs of all missions, both home and foreign.

Oct. 18 has been named Mission Sunday for Catholic parishes by His Holiness, Pope Pius XII. The Society for the Propagation of the Faith, official lay mission-aid arm of the Church, will appeal in the name of Pope Pius for prayers and alms in behalf of the missions. Bishop Michael J. Ready, head of the Diocese of Columbus, has written a pastoral letter to the faithful of the Diocese which was read in all parishes last Sunday. Bishop Ready called Mission Sunday an opportunity to express "Faith in the command of Christ to teach, and the immeasurable value of an individual soul; Hope in the mercy of God . . Charity to our brothers in Christ."

Bishop Fulton J. Sheen, national director of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, explained in a telecast lecture last Sunday how 60 million afflicted and needy received some aid or care from the 100,000 Catholic missioners who operate 45,000 schools, 2,100 hospitals, and 4,000 orphanages and asylums in mission areas. As a preface to Mission Sunday, he explained the nature of true sacrifice and love.

The Society for the Propagation of the Faith terms this largest concerted mission-aid effort "The Holy Father's Community Chest" from which he aids all missions.

What Exacily Is a Memory Garden?

A Memory Garden is an individualized cemetery section that combines art, religion, sacred music and the beauties of nature.

Out on the west coast, about forty years ago, some thoughtful men conceived the idea that people might like a cemetery better if it looked more like a park than a cemetery. So there was created in California a cemetery without tombstones . . . and people liked it. So much so, that hundreds of Memorial Parks sprang up all over the country. Today ninety percent of all new cemetery developments is in accordance with the Garden Plan. In place of the familiar graveyard, there is landscaped loveliness, dedicated to the Glory of God, and for the consolation and peace of those visiting loved ones at rest. Such a place is Chapel Heights Memory Gardens — visit us soon and see for yourself.

Two PTA Groups Favor State Education Board

Two Marion PTA units adopted resolutions Thursday favoring the the passage of the constitutional amendment creating a state board of education.

The two groups were the George Washington PTA and the Olney School PTA. At George Washington, Paul Koehler explained the meaning and results of the amendment, and said the state school system should be managed more like the local school boards.

Mrs. C. H. Young, at Olney, said the purpose of the amendment was to shift the responsibility within the education department from the state director to the board.

Swayze Made Climb the Hard Way

TV Newscaster Credits Success to Luck

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—When the ordinary man commits a conversational error in his living room, he doesn't worry much about it Nobody may even notice it except his kindly old mother-in-law, and if she is eating free who is she to holler'

But when a television performer makes a mistake he feels sure it will be seen in 10 million living rooms, and at least nine million gleeful people will write in letters pointing it out

That is why, when you shake hands with some TV stars, you discover they have very short fingers Their fingers didn t grow that way They've just been gnawed down

In one of the most nerve-killing industries of our times it's a big problem to keep from getting too tense John Cameron Swayze NBC newscaster, has a simple gimmick to reduce nervousness

My father was a drug salesman' he said 'and before each program I put an 'RX'—the druggists' prescription sign—at the start of every paragraph of my script and this sign is a constant reminder to relax'

Actually John, a methodical craftsman has found that on a fast-paced program employing the [illegible] teamed and well-timed talents of as many as 100 people the boners that occasionally are bound to happen win more friends than critics Such as the time he introduced a Florida bathing beauty feature—and a Chicago snowstorm flashed on the screen.

"I don t know of anything the audience enjoyed more than this one' John recalled, smiling 'They get a kick out of seeing that, for all the electronic marvels of television there is still a human element in it—and sometimes the human element slips up"

Swayze, now in his mid-forties, was perhaps the original pioneer in news telecasts

"I made them for several months back in 1933 in Kansas City" he said, "but so far as I know the only people who ever saw them were television dealers The public wasn t buying sets then

He is one ofthe top-paid men in the field now but he made the real big time only within the last five years He came up the hard way and that may explain why his hat size has never changed He feels his success came as the result of a series of lucky breaks, and because of a willingness to do what others didn't want to

"When I was a kid in Kansas everybody was taking piano lessons," he said 'But my father figured that in business it was more important to be able to talk than to play a piano so he made me take elocution lessons"

Later John got another lucky break He came to Broadway to become an actor—and couldn't land a job. But he did meet a stage-struck girl from Arkansas—Beulah Mae Esteps And after he returned to Kansas City and found work as a reporter, he and the girl from Little Rock set up housekeeping on $30 a week

"The paper decided to put on some radio news broadcasts," said Swayze "Nobody else on the staff wanted the job, so I took it—at $15 a week"

Today he makes more than 100 times that His annual income is in six figures—that golden pasture between $100 000 and one million

Swayze aired his wares later in Hollywood, then came to New York again In 1948 when the networks televised the national political conventions some of the top radio announcers were afraid to risk their reputations in the new medium John was very happy to try the gamble, and made himself a video star almost overnight

"That was my luckiest break," he said

Most successful men have their favorite mottoes John has two

1. "Luck is when opportunity and preparation meet"

2 Bernard Baruch's advice to "always keep your head in the direction of the firing"

And, he added he has a third one in reserve to keep his pleasant happy life in perspective

"One wrong break can ruin it all"

Not in Eisenhower's Lifetime

President Eisenhower made it clear in his Kansas City speech to Future Farmers of America that the farm problem is weighing on his mind

But he was doing wishful thinking when he said he looked upon formulation of a sound farm policy as a bipartisan undertaking—that the welfare of farm families "knows no politics"

Nothing is more deeply enmeshed in politics than the perennial issue of whether or not the welfare of farm families is geared in the proper ratio to the national economy. That is where the parity formula originated. An adverse trend in a farm area, like the one reflected in Wisconsin's ninth congressional district when a Democrat was elected to succeed a nominal Republican, is a fire alarm in the lobbies of Congress.

Pulling and hauling between agricultural producers and those who consume agricultural products is the essence of politics in a welfare government President Eisenhower will be lucky if he doesn't have to throw his secretary of agriculture to the wolves before the year is out, not because Ezra Benson is incompetent but because someone must be punished for sagging farm prices

Any farmer who studies the Eisenhower speech at Kansas City will know the President is intelligently aware of the farm problem. Any farmer who wants to be fair will know the problem won't be solved in Eisenhower's lifetime; or in Harry Truman's lifetime; or even in Adlai Stevenson's lifetime.

Politicians will still be kicking it around, distorting it, exploiting it and making votes with it when Dwight Eisenhower's grandchildren are complaining about the high price of eating and farmers are complaining about their precarious existence on the brink of economic failure—never any farther from disaster than the next drought or the next bumper crop.

Tito May Simmer Down

Marshal Tito's protests about the Trieste deal are being heard on this side of the Atlantic

They should be listened to with three thoughts in mind.

1 If Marshal Tito doesn't like the decision by the United States and Great Britain to leave the part of the Trieste area they have been occupying to the Italians, he can complain to his heart's content

2 If he wants a military showdown, however, he must be prepared to give up all hope of further U S aid This aid, begun last year, has been the means of saving the Tito regime from its two imminent dangers — pressure from the Kremlin and internal poverty Great Britain and France have been giving assistance under the same program.

3 If Tito prefers to swing back into the Soviet Union's orbit of influence he must prefer as part of the same deal to take his chances with Communist party discipline which calls for getting rid of members who stray from the party line

These things being better known to Tito than they could be known to anyone else, it is a safe bet he will not protest too much about Trieste He has everything to lose and nothing to gain by opposing the only countries which have anything to offer him except a bullet in the back of the head.

The Federal Bludgeon

Budget Director Dodge one of the strong men on President Eisenhower's administrative team, has revealed what is likely to happen to his goal of a balanced budget for the federal government

He explains that if everything ticked along like clockwork, it now would be two more years before the government would be in the black. But Director Dodge does not expect things to tick along like clockwork

He expects congressmen to be in favor of cutting taxes while padding expenses Sen Byrd of Virginia, a hard-bitten financial realist, estimates this sort of thing could knock the federal budget out of balance by as much as 15 billion dollars by 1955, unless there is a political miracle

Advocates of a hang-the-expense Air Force can be expected to team up with advocates of a hang-the-expense agricultural policy to increase federal spending Every detail of national defense spending is subject to sudden and uncontrollable inflation The only person in Washington absolutely dedicated to a balanced budget is Mr. Dodge, himself, a banker by profession, he says he is as determined as he ever was to put the government into the black That is his mission in the Eisenhower administration

But he has found out since he became the new administration's budget expert early in November, 1952, that the spending bludgeon with which budgets are beaten out of shape is the most formidable force in government.

A budget-balancer eventually becomes a man without friends a spoilsport in the great national game of distributing the wealth.

Time for Decision

By David Lawrence

End of Tax Uncertainties Would Aid Business

Two big uncertainties face the business world, and the Eisenhower administration has not yet been able to remove them.

One relates to the manner in which the United States plans to meet the threat of an H - bomb or A-bomb attack

The other relates to the fact that, with certain types of taxes due to be repealed next year, the Treasury is confronted with a huge loss in revenue which can only be made up by some other kinds of taxes.

The news emanating from Washington in recent days has indicated pretty clearly that a balanced budget in the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1954, is out of the question and also that for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1955, it is touch and go whether a balance can be achieved.

Business planning is difficult when there is uncertainty. Even if the news is bad on the subject of taxes, business men want to know sufficiently in advance to figure out how to adjust themselves to a new situation.

Prolonged indecision, therefore, is not very good for the health of the business community.

Administration officials hereabouts seem to think that decisions can be announced around the first of January. This is a bit late in planning for 1954's business operations.

One reason for this delay is that the process of examining the thousand and one estimates from the different departments and agencies cannot possibly be concluded sooner.

Another is that the government has always waited till January 1 to disclose its budget. Already some informal impressions are being conveyed to the public which show the handwriting on the wall.

Thus, Joseph M. Dodge, director of the budget, who is noted for his caution and conservative approach, has just made a speech which tells that the wind isn't blowing too favorably in the direction of budget balancing or tax reduction. He put it succinctly the other day.

"The facts suggest that we are in a costly trap of built - up dollar demands on the government for domestic purpose, many of them made mandatory by existing legislation, on which there have been imposed staggering expenditures for our national security. The source of payment is in taxes or in increased government debt"

Then the budget director goes on to say that every issue is subjected to the "impact of the extremely varied views and objectives arising from special areas of interest or responsibility and all the public and congressional pressures which can be made to serve them."

This is a reference, of course, to the political realism which every administration must take into account. But Mr. Dodge also points out that from an economic standpoint drastic budget cutting isn't healthy. He adds.

"There are the possible disturbing effects on the economy of action that is too abrupt — and we cannot ignore the large areas of human welfare that are so interwoven into government expenditures as to be substantially dependent upon them."

This point came to light earlier this week in a Wisconsin election, where the farmers elected a Democrat because of a fear that price supports might be taken away and a further drop in income brought about

The Eisenhower administration is getting a taste of what is involved in the spending forced on the government by what Dodge calls "Habits encouraged over the years" and by "The pressures that have been built up behind the discovery of how much can be done to benefit a particular group or area as a result of persuading the government to finance it from taxes levied on all the people."

Entirely apart from the pressure for such local projects is the momentum behind a bigger defense program.

The pressure is twofold — from those who want to spend money locally on civilian defense and other projects in continental United States, and from those who want to spend more money for big bombers to insure an effective retaliation or threat of it so that civilian defenses will not be so necessary.

It's a debate involving billions and billions — and the talk about balancing the budget in fiscal year 1955 or even later becomes a hushed whisper as plans of that kind are bandied about in inner circles. Meanwhile, business waits for some decision and some leadership from Washington.

Cotton Corners

By TRUMAN TWILL

Dear Nephew: As I tried to explain to our school board last month, students need to be taught about the realities of their government.

The scandal in New York state about public officials going to visit a racketeer being cooled off in Sing Sing demonstrates the point.

This fellow represented one of the realities of government. Yet to the ignorant and the naive it is a mystery why public officials continued to hover around him after he was locked up in prison for being a bad egg Situations like the one now coming to light in New York state are common, but people do not understand why. Even Gov Dewey seems surprised, surprised though I suspect he knows better.

Government is an organization for the development and application of power. The reason the United Nations is so disappointing to so many people is that it lacks power It can adopt resolutions and hold discussions but it cannot apply the kind of leverage which gets things done. It cannot reward or punish

This jailbird in Sing Sing possessed a powerful lever and knew how to use it He was a big operator in the power league. He knew how to get things done That was why public officials who needed to get things done kept on his good side even after he was sent to prison for overstepping the proprieties

I pride myself in being able to figure out if given enough time how to find the source of power in any situation, either public or private There is always one person who can make or break an arrangement This is just as true, generally speaking, of legitimate enterprise as it is of illegitimate enterprise, of which I know next to nothing

Perhaps a cynic would think of this as finding the right angle, that everything has to be worked from an angle Being no cynic, I prefer to think of it as nothing more than sizing up the realities which is what I wanted our school board to let me do in high school civics courses I prefer to think of it as nothing more complex than knowing why the best way to get action is to see the head man first, instead of waiting until his flunkies have kicked you around in the hope that you'll get lost and relieve them of making a decision they are ashamed to admit they can't make

I am bug - eyed with interest about this New York case because it is such a clear illustration of what I've been trying to say. I do not condone the monstrosity of a racketeer being able to run things from a prison cell But I'm darned if I'll condone the monstrosity of a system of education which does not explain to students why government is a sitting duck for people who understand the origins and usages of power.

Unless all the good people know why this is so and how to protect the sitting duck from the ruthless operators everlastingly drawing a bead on it, we'll wake up some morning and discover the duck is dead

Did I tell you that I have had to give up football this fall? My bifocals fell off every time I leaned over. Your aunt, who is just as loony as I am in her lucid intervals, asks to be remembered to you and yours and has been dropping hints about taking dancing lessons to increase her popularity.

Cotton Corners UNCLE GEORGE

Lincoln Question

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Custodian George Cashman, Abraham Lincoln's tomb, lists as the most common question of the thousands of annual visitors: "Is Lincoln really buried here?"

The answer is yes Lincoln's body is in a hermetically sealed casket enclosed in a 27-ton concrete vault 10 feet below the tomb's floor

Churchill Beacon of Conservatism

By Raymond Moley

Whatever may be the infirmities of a body from which too much has been expected over many years, there is nothing wrong with Sir Winston Churchill's mind. His speech at the Conservative party's conference at Margate was not only a stimulating call to party action, but one of the best statements of the Conservative faith in recent years.

The part of the speech that dealt with foreign policy monopolized the headlines, coming as it did at a moment when the American public is disturbed by the confusion of voices in Washington regarding the H-bomb and our defenses against it But two-thirds of the speech dealt with domestic policy and with the gains made by Britain since the Attlee government fell in 1951.

Those who say cynically that the Conservative party has adopted most of the social and economic reforms advocated by the Socialists should read this speech with care. They will see, if they do so, that a wide chasm of principle still separates the two parties

True, the Conservatives have accepted social "insurance" in most of its aspects. But, except for free medical service, these were inherited not from the Socialists, but from the Lloyd George Liberals.

They have accepted the responsibility of building houses through government enterprise, but that is a condition forced upon any government after the decay and devastation of wars and preparation therefor

Another compromise is a limited participation in the food market Owing to many factors, largely the war and the Socialist effort to prolong war controls, there is still a Food Ministry and a limited and declining process of buying and distributing food

Agriculture is assisted and controlled to a degree somewhat more than in the United States but interference with the free market in agriculture is based upon the same factor that influences the American market — the fluctuations of world prices.

Beyond that, the Conservative policy is to interpose a firm opposition to nationalization Coal and the railways, says Churchill, will stay nationalized. There the march of the state must stop. Despite doubts, this government has succeeded in denationalizing steel and transport.

Churchill is probably indulging in no mere political oratory when he adds that the British people have had enough of nationalization.

In his use of terms he is far more outspoken than most Republican speakers in this country. He says the British stand for "independence." That would be hooted at here as "isolationist"

He says his party stands for "free enterprise" That, too, is taboo in our politics.

I am a bit annoyed at his use of the term "Tory Democracy" It is apparently a political confection The two words, if they have not ceased to have meaning, are inimical one to the other.

The term is no worse, however, than the product of the ghost writer who had President Eisenhower say that he was "liberal," "progressive," and "conservative" — all in one breath

That generalization in the Boston speech was qualified by a special definition of each word but when everyone makes up his own definitions, we shall have no common language at all

The Conservative faith as stated bly the prime minister is simple. It holds with "free and flexible working of the laws of supply and demand," limited only by the responsibility of the state to prevent disaster, individual or national.

This is a faith to stand by and to measure every act of government It is much more robust and meaningful than some of our statemen's definition of their faith in mere freedom

We need also to know what we are free from and what duties we shall put upon ourselves. Mere freedom is an ideological vacuum.

Finland, Soviet Wedge

By FRED MANOR

HELSINKI

The Soviet Union is attempting to use Finland as the thin edge of the wedge with which to pry open the markets of Western Europe

This is the opinion of qualified Western observers here, who are watching with uneasy interest the efforts of the present Finnish government to draw Western countries into triangular trade agreements, with the Soviet Union and the satellites as third partners

The Finnish government is a minority administration by the Agrarian party It has been able to remain in office solely because of the support received from the Communist party. This may indicate that Moscow does not wish to see any changes here while these trade moves are afoot.

Undoubtedly, some East - West trade is desirable But there is much heart searching here about these new projects, hatched in Moscow in an atmosphere of great secrecy

If such deals are to involve Finland's major Western European customers, such as Britain, France and Western Germany, they may well serve to reverse the present healthy trend of liberalization of trade, and bring back quotas, licenses, and all the other paraphernalia of government - controlled business, of which Europe hoped to be finally rid.

Moreover, any important deals with the Eastern bloc imply considerable political risks To the Communists, trade is merely an extension of their foreign policy, in which price structure, production costs, and other economic considerations remain wholly meaningless

So, for instance, the bilateral Finnish-Soviet agreement has resulted in the Soviets forcing upon Finland large quantities of cereals, which Finland does not need, but which she has to take at prices about one-third above world market level

On the other hand, if the Soviet bloc should decide on a policy of dumping, with which to disrupt trade within Free Europe, the projected triangular arrangements could become one of the means to achieve this aim.

Automobiles are a telling point in this argument. The Soviet bloc seems to have a surplus of automobiles, and in Finland, has been underbidding most of this country's Western suppliers. Eastern bloc automobiles, which last year made up only 5 per cent of Finland's automobile imports, account for more than a half of this year's figures.

Denmark which has just rejected the proposal to have NATO air forces stationed on her bases, is reported to have already agreed to such a triangular trade

Now pressure is being brought to bear on Norway, another exposed NATO partner to join in these Soviet-sponsored deals

The fact that it is the northern —and not the strongest — links in the NATO chain that are being strained most by these Soviet offers of trade, should offer further food for thought.

The first loan of the Home Owners Loan Corp in Marion County was completed when the corporation took a mortgage on a Marion residence property for $2,700 after saving it from a sheriff's sale

A total of 200 Marion employers had reported to the government the results of shortened hours and increased wages under the NRA, Postmaster French Crow estimated.

Discards Fascinate Children

Death Lurks in 200 Abandoned Iceboxes, Coolers

By MIKE HUBER

Did you know that an estimated 200 death traps threaten the lives of Marion children?

Most likely you didn't, but its the truth. There are in Marion and the immediate vicinity an estimated 200 discarded refrigerators, iceboxes, freezers and coolers of one sort or another — each one capable of taking a child's life.

That's the estimate given by Earl Scheerer of 274 High St president of the Buckeye (Ohio) Chapter of the Refrigerator Service Engineers Society.

SCHEERER EXPECTS the number to increase each year. The city's annual refrigerator sales and subsequently, the annual number of discardings are well above the number of old refrigeration units taken in each year by local junk dealers, Scheerer said.

These old cooling units look harmless enough, and it is probably hard for their owners to visualize them as instruments of death. Yet that's what they become when placed on a porch or in a garage or abandoned in a dump.

Old refrigerators hold a strong fascination for the juvenile mind A child's curiosity might drive him inside an abandoned refrigerator to see what makes the light go out when the door closes An old icebox might provide a perfect hiding place for a seemingly harmless game of hide-and-seek A discarded cooler of some sort could make a great jail for a game of cops and robbers.

Once the door closes on a child, there is little hope for him. He can't open the big door; it is locked from the outside. The unit's insulation acts as a sound-proofing, drowning out his screams for help. Alone in the complete darkness, he faces an agonizing death by suffocation.

AFTER THE TRAGEDY, the stricken parents' only recourse is to "if". If only the discarded unit had been hauled away the day before . . If only it had been turned around with the door facing the wall . . . If only the hinges and latch had been removed . . .

It is a shameful waste of young life A discarded refrigerator has little value; the value of a human life is beyond computation

The nation as a whole was shocked into a realization of the problem last August when 11 youngsters, ranging in age from 2 to 9 years, died in discarded refrigerators in less than two days.

In Proctor, Ark., four brothers and their sister crawled into an old icebox which the family used for a short time and then shoved onto the back porch. Their bodies were discovered four hours later.

The same day four boys suffocated in an icebox in Richmond, Va. Less than 24 hours later another abandoned icebox in Haverhill, Mass., claimed the lives of two more small boys

And as recently as last Tuesday, an old refrigerator took the life of a five-year-old girl in Grand Haven, Mich.

Now the abandoned refrigerator is a national issue. Approximately 12 states and hundreds of communities have passed laws and ordinances governing discarded cooling units And many other cities and town have conducted campaigns to remove the menace

So far, Marion has been lucky. There have been no such death's in the area, although there was a close call a few years ago.

MARION ISN'T IMMUNE, however. Those who might take an 'it can't happen here' attitude should remember that people in Proctor, Richmond, Haverhill and Grand Haven probably felt that same way at one time.

City officials and other interested individuals realize this and are taking steps to lessen the danger of these old refrigerators

The Scioto (Marion) Chapter of the Refrigerator Service Engineers Society has been conducting a campaign against these death traps for a number of years.

One of the projects of this campaign has been the distribution of posters pointing out the danger of discarded refrigeration units.

Another project has been the offer of the Society's members to remove hinges and catches from these old coolers at no cost

Furthermore, the Society has been pressing city council to pass legislation requiring owners of old refrigeration units to make them safe for children Council's municipal service committee is now studying the situation and is expected to draw up such an ordinance in the near future.

Scheerer has pointed out several ways in which the owner of an abandoned refrigerator might remove its danger to small children.

One method is to lock the room in which such an appliance is stored. This will prevent children from even getting near it

Another method is to fix the abandoned refrigerator in such a way that youngsters can not get inside of it This can be done by roping or chaining the door shut or facing the door against a wall.

ANOTHER METHOD is the removal of the hinges and door catch. Scheerer emphasized that the Society will perform this service free of charge. All an interested person has to do is notify Scheerer at 2-8341 or Lester W. Miller, president of the Scioto Chapter, at 2-9472

Finally, Scheerer pointed out that the unit could be hauled away by a junk man or used as a trade-in on a new refrigerator The junk or trade-in value of such an appliance is usually small, but it is worth it to have the abandoned unit out of the way of little children.

As Mayor Harold F Robinson said, "There is enough evidence around the nation to warn parents of the danger of old refrigerators"

The precautions are simple to take, and they may save lives.

Presidential Rail Car in Mothballs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The presidential railroad car seems headed in the same direction as the presidential yacht before it—into mothballs for economy's sake.

President Eisenhower, who travels mostly by air, has used the government owned "U. S. Car No. 1," formerly called the "Ferdinand Magellan"—only once in three rail trips since his Jan 20 inauguration.

That was when he went to State College, Pa., to visit his brother, Milton.

He used a regular railroad "business car" on his two other train voyages—to a New York Republican dinner recently when the state party committee paid the fare, and on the first leg of his current Western tour.

The yacht Williamsburg, which had served Democratic Presidents Roosevelt and Truman after being acquired by the Navy in 1941, was decommissioned last June 30 The White House called her "a symbol of needless luxury."

Child Conservation Circle Celebrates 35th Anniversary

Members of the Senior Circle of the Child Conservation League were joined by guests when they celebrated their 35th anniversary Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. James E Frew, 225 S. Greenwood St.

Mrs Robert Hurley, president, extended a welcome and the program hour was in charge of Mrs. George M. Schelb. For the program Mrs. Clarence W. Weber reviewed Cleveland Amory's "Last Resorts," and music was by Roger Walraven who played a piano number, "Auf Wiedersehen," by Fisher, and Mrs James Buck, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Gerald Jennings, sang "Through the Years."

An arrangement of coral shaded candles centered the table at which Mrs. Hurley and Mrs Schelb presided, and appointments were in coral and purple.

Preceding the program a memorial service was conducted for Mrs. Addison Bain, a member and past president of the circle. Mrs. Buck sang "The Lord's Prayer," and Mrs. Schelb read an invocation written by Mrs Bain for the state convention at Cleveland. The invocation was read at the opening of the Oct 9 session, at approximately the time Mrs. Bain's unexpected death occurred in her home here. She was the first president of the state organization.

The Senior Circle was organized as a study group Nov 12, 1918 in the Marion Public Library with a charter membership of 45. Mrs Schelb is the only charter member now affiliated with the group. First meetings were held in the library, then at the YMCA and later in the homes of the members, a custom still followed.

The program soon broadened into civic projects and the circle pioneered in the inauguration of a children's story hour which was opened at the Silver Street School Feb. 13, 1920. Another pioneer step was the sponsoring of a school nurse. Through the generosity of factories, business places, various organizations and individuals, and the help and advice of James F. Prendergast and Warren G. Harding, then the President-elect, the sum of more than $2,200 was raised. On Sept 7, 1920, Miss Clara Babre, a graduate nurse took up her duties as a full-time school nurse at a salary of $125 a month. Other pioneer movements included providing milk and crackers for undernourished children in schools, the establishment of a day nursery where working mothers could leave their children and other civic projects looking to the betterment of children's health and welfare.

The Marion Circle, the first to be organized in the state, had the honor of being hostess when some 30 Child Conservation Circles throughout Ohio gathered here to organize a State Federation in 1920 and Mrs. Addison Bain was chosen as its first president. At the state convention last week in Cleveland more than 500 circles were represented.

Guests included Mrs Richard Minshall, president of the Marion Federation of the Child Conservation League, Mrs. Lloyd Dye, Mrs. C. F. Church, Mrs. Morison Gast, Mrs. John Gillis, Mrs. John Gries, Mrs. M. L. Wilson, Mrs. L. K. McGinnis, Mrs. W. R. Thrush, Mrs. Herman Heisler, Mrs. Carl E Danner, Mrs. Henry S. Kraner, Mrs. F. M. Sage, Mrs. Fred W. Warner, Mrs. Bess Ballantine, Mrs. Grace Ulsh, Mrs. O C. Alspach, Mrs. Edward T. Huber, Mrs. Frank G Daum, Mrs. V. C. Kissell, Mrs. W. Kenneth Tobin, Mrs. Weber and Miss Edna Dutton.

Assisting Mrs. Frew as hostesses were members of the program committee, Mrs Schelb, Mrs. Lloyd Williams and Mrs Glen Toms and the social committee, Mrs. Robert Hedges, Mrs. E W Imbody, Mrs J. C. Arter and Mrs. Robert Krebs.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A recent decision by a Franklin County common pleas judge is expected to result in at least seven more indictments of witnesses who refused to answer questions of the Ohio Un - American activities Commission.

These Days

By George Sokolsky

The theory supporting the existence of the United Nations is that all of its 60 members will not engage in aggression against each other, or even against nations which are not yet members of the United Nations.

SOKOLSKY

The theory is that war has been outlawed as an instrument for the settlement of international differences.

This is the third attempt at this concept, the League of Nations and the Kellogg-Briand Pact being its forerunners.

Nevertheless, wars have occurred despite the existence of the United Nations, and sovereign states do make separate treaties and agreements.

In the Korean War, members of the United Nations supported North Korea, an aggressor, while other members of the United Nations were neutral in a war declared by the United Nations. Actually, all the world is at this moment engaged in the preparation for war which some experts believe might break into a hydrogen bomb war as early as 1956. Therefore, the hope of some statesmen is that a non-aggression pact may be written between the United States and Soviet Russia which will either postpone or eliminate such a war.

THERE IS, however, a long record of non-aggression pacts with Soviet Russia which have been violated by that country.

1 — Treaty of Neutrality and Friendship with Turkey—1925 — denounced 1945.

2 — Treaty of Neutrality and Non-Aggression with Afghanistan—1926 — violated 1940.

3 — Treaty of Non-Aggression with Lithuania — 1926 — annexed 1940.

4 — Treaty of Neutrality and Non-Aggression with Persia —1927 — violated 1945.

5 — Pact of Non-Aggression with Latvia — 1932 — annexed 1940.

6 — Pact of Non-Aggression with Poland — 1932 — attacked 1939.

7 — Pact of Non-Aggression with Estonia — 1932 — annexed 1940.

8 — Pact of Non-Aggression with Finland — 1932 — denounced 1939.

9 — Pact of Non-Aggression with China — 1937 — conquered Manchuria 1945.

10 — Pact of Non-Aggression with Yugoslavia — 1941 — withdrew diplomatic recognition one month later.

THESE ARE a few friendship and non-aggression pacts selected from a long list of agreements and treaties violated by Soviet Russia.

The Russian definition of aggression is particularly satisfactory because it includes political aggression.

These are the words:

"Each of the contracting parties undertakes to abstain from all kinds of aggression against the other and will not, on the territory under its own occupation, take any such steps which may cause political or milhary injury to the other contracting government.

"In particular, each of the contracting parties undertakes not to join any other state or states in any political or military alliance or union directed against the other contracting party, and similarly it will not join in any boycott or financial and economic blockades directed against the other."

FURTHER, the definition includes this statement

"The contracting parties will not permit any groups or individuals in their own territories to establish or to prosecute activities detrimental to the other contracting party; to take steps for the subversion of the established government of the other contracting state, to take any action against the integrity of the territory of the other Contracting Party. . ."

Nevertheless, Russia has violated treaties and agreements containing these or similar words In 1933, by an exchange of correspondence between Roosevelt and Litvinov, the United States agreed to recognize Soviet Russia.

One of the stipulations was that neither country would employ political parties or groups, even of natives, to upset the government of the other. One year later, in 1934, Soviet Russia organized the Harold Ware cell in Washington to infiltrate the American government up to the second level of authority.

AT LEAST four espionage cells were stationed in this country. The atom bomb was stolen There is no knowing what else has been stolen. All these acts were violations of the Roosevelt-Litvinov agreement.

Soviet Russia has violated clauses in agreements and treaties and the general provisions of international law in every country in the world by propaganda, by infiltration, by Communist party activity, by subversion, by the corruption of natives, and by direct and indirect war.

No example exists of such an anarchistic attitude toward contractual relations similar to this The Russians cannot be trusted.

Therefore, a non-aggression pact is a useless document. Actually, the Charter of the United Nations covers any condition that a non-aggression pact would.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

ST. LOUIS

A blackmailers' network, hiding behind a front of hundreds of small but powerful construction trades unions, levying its personal terror-tax on thousands of new homes, hospitals, roads and even vital military installations and arsenals, is operating in United States

RIESEL

Though many of its regional chiefs have been indicted on charges ranging from murder to literally million - dollar shakedowns the network hasn't been scratched even by a combine of many local police departments Treasury and FBI agents and U S marshals

Yet these thugs, whose stock in trade is the ability to withhold frightened working men from their jobs and keep labor from contractors rushing to meet deadlines, could be smashed overnight by respectable national labor chiefs.

THE BLACKMAIL rings are deep in the heart of AFL Construction Trades unions The AFL Construction Trades Council is headed by Dick Gray, a powerful political figure

High in the Construction Trades is Martin Durkin, ex-secretary of labor, who, for example, has not yet ousted from his Plumbers and Pipefitters Union some of the country's most brutal shakedown artists, such as those in this city.

Yet there are records in the Eastern Judicial District of Missouri which reveal that the blackmailers network has cost at least one contractor $975,000 on one job alone

Other businessmen have lost sums ranging upward of a quarter of a million dollars. Thousands of working men have had five and six dollars a week taken out of their salaries for the personal use of business agents who would not otherwise give the working guy a chance to earn his daily bread.

The business agents can do this through control of hiring halls which make the New York waterfront shape-up seem like a collegiate political club rehearsal in democracy.

THE CONSTRUCTION trades shakedown artists in Missouri have improved on the "Illinois Plan" for blackmail of businessmen. In Illinois, contractors have been forced to pay a fixed percentage of the dollar amount of their contracts to union officials to insure "harmonious labor relations on the job"

In Missouri, which I pick because the grand jury here has the most perfect case study of this type of "harmony insurance," the business agents have been as bold as the vermin in the ancient story of the hotel where the roaches don't wait until you get to your room. They come down and read the register so they know exactly where to await you.

According to the grand jury's secret records especially on public works projects financed by the state, the labor leaders here actually attend the contract letting hearings in Jefferson City.

ONCE THE GOONS know which businessman has won the big job, they rush him into a 'pre job conference' to discuss the new project. There they tell him exactly what "labor harmony insurance" will cost him

Usually it's a fixed percentage on the dollar value of the contract just let If the businessman wants to meet his contractual deadline, he pays.

There are cases where no "pre-job conference" was called. The extortionists simply plagued the contractors from the very beginning with "jurisdictional disputes and other forms of labor strife until the contractors themselves, in a desperate moment, sought out the labor representatives and asked what could be done to get their job running smoothly to avoid paying a fixed penalty for every day he runs past the agreed deadline"

The grand jury reports that the goons are armed in the event an over-harassed employer is provoked into attacking his extortioners

EVIDENCE that this is blackmail, simple but not pure, was found in "numerous situations" where a contractor paid for "Labor harmony," but the business agents returned for more. In one instance, such payment ran to half a million dollars.

In another case, the business agent operated with such gall that he forced the horrified employer to set up a dummy company to cover up the union's extortion

In still another case, an Oklahoma contractor signed to construct a number of pumping stations in his state as well as Missouri. All of them were identical Same material. Same equipment But because he had to pay off in Missouri it cost him 115,133 man hours, $561,000 there.

In Oklahoma he paid $310 000 and put in only 80,474 man hours, or a quarter of a million dollars less than in the area controlled by the crooked business agents.

Yet none in the vast network, not even those tied in with the notorious imprisoned power, Joe Fay, have been removed from office by their national leaders. Why?

McCarthy Gets Clean Bill in Election Probe

Justice Department Finding Arouses Ire Of Senator Monroney

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Monroney (D-Okla) said today that Atty. Gen. Brownell, in finding Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) broke no fraud or election laws, "is giving a clean bill to all the ugly features of one of the dirtiest political campaigns in recent history."

Brownell announced yesterday that, after looking into questions raised by a Senate subcommittee, the Justice Department found no evidence of fraud or election law violations in McCarthy's personal finances or activities in the 1950 Maryland senatorial campaign.

Treasury Probe Continues

While McCarthy's income is still under investigation by the treasury, Brownell said, the Justice Department is bowing out of the matter. He said it would make no further inquiry and would seek no grand jury action.

Similarly cleared was former Sen. William Benton (D-Conn), whom McCarthy had accused of campaign fund irregularities. Benton had sought to have McCarthy ousted from the Senate.

Monroney was chairman of the Senate elections subcommittee when, in early 1951, it investigated te 1950 Maryland campaign in which McCarthy helped Republican Sen. Jon Marshall Butler unseat the Democratic incumbent, Millard Tydings. The subcommittee report called the campaign a "despicable, back street type."

'Dirty Campaign'

"The attorney general is giving a clean bill to an election campaign that involved the concealment of large sums of money that were spent, a fake composite photograph of Sen. Tydings and Earl Browder (former Communist leader) and all of the other ugly features of one of the dirtiest political campaigns in recent history."

The subcommittee filed another report last Jan. 2, before the Republicans took office, and questioned among other things whether McCarthy had speculated in commodities with funds raised for his anti-Communist campaign.

Sen. Hennings (D-Mo) had become subcommitee chairman by then, with Sen. Hendrickson (R-NJ) and Sen Hayden (R-Ariz) as members. None of the three was reached immediately for comment on Brownell's announcement.

The attorney general's findings are likely to intensify McCarthy's controversial place in next year's congressional campaign.

Beside her is Mrs. Lioby Van Hoose, also of Huntington, holding the C. & O.'s new book-type ticket, which features pressure-sensitized paper, thus eliminating use of carbon, which smears hands, clothing and purses. Special coating makes the new paper turn black under pencil point pressure. New book ticket is three by six, simplifies accounting and traveler handling and is said to save time at the ticket window.

driving license in Municipal Court today.

It all started when Milakovich stopped cars driven by Boger, 31, and Dale Irey, 22, both of near Caledonia, for unsafe operation.

Irey had already left and Milakovich was talking to Boger in front of the latter's parked car, when the Daniels car hit the back of Boger's car.

Force of the collision knocked the car forward, striking Milakovich and Boger and hitting a telephone pole. Daniels then swerved and hit the left side of the patrol car which was parked in front of Boger. Daniels came to a stop against the curb.

Slight damage resulted to two vehicles involved in an accident today at 2:50 a.m. at N. Grand Ave. and E Center St.

A car driven by Marion Edward Bussey, 35, of 223 Franconia Ave, backing up, struck a parked car owned by Georgianna Miley of 613 E. Farming St.

Slight damage also resulted to two other cars in an accident Friday at 5:10 a.m. at W. Center and Orchard Sts. Cars driven by Joanne Bercaw of Kenton and Frank Denninger, 45, of 402 Glad St. collided.

A hit-skip accident was reported Friday at 9:41 p.m. A car owned by Carl M. Williams of 261 E. George St, parked at that address, was struck by a car headed east on George There was heavy damage to the right rear and fender of the Williams car.

that there was no evidence that any documents had been compromised or that files had been tampered with in the Signal Corps intelligence agency is still correct.

"The documents alleged to have been missing at that time were accounted for.

Lend-Lease Recalled

"Under lend-lease agreements during World War II, a free exchange of information with allied nations was authorized. Since the termination of lend-lease agreements after World War I, we have no evidence of microfilm copies of any Signal Corps classified documents having gone astray. If microfilm copies of such documents should be in unauthorized hands, they represent new and previously unknown evidence in the cases now being investigated."

McCarthy told reporters earlier this week that he believed some of 37 documents concerning vital radar defense secrets were sent by espionage agents to Communists in the Soviet zone of Germany.

Until today the Army had refused to talk about the charges made by McCarthy regarding the alleged stolen documents or to say why it had not made an announcement of its own.

Ahroon found the second deck cut off by smoke and climbed through an escape hatch to the hangar deck.

Firefighters in Action

Damage control and firefighting parties already were in action, he said.

Capt. Ahroon timed the explosion at 3:15 p.m., EST, and the first fire alarm was sounded a minute later. At 3:48 a second alarm was sent in. More than 50 Boston fire trucks and rescue companies raced to the shipyard.

Virtually every available ambulance in Boston—about 75—converged on the area as officials discovered the extent of the disaster. Civilian doctors and nurses joined Navy hospital corpsmen from other vessels.

Hospitals rushed whole blood and plasma.

Taken to 3 Hospitals

The injured, many so charred and battered as to make identification difficult, were taken to City Hospital, to Carney Hospital in South Boston and to the naval hospital in Chelsea.

The Navy, following regulations for notifying next of kin, withheld announcement of casualties' names until today. But of those taken to the two civilian hospitals, a high proportion were Navy officers and enlisted men, with some civilian workmen included.

The fire was described by Dr. James W. Manary, superintendent of Boston City Hospital, as the city's worst disaster since the Cocoanut Grove nightclub fire that snuffed out 49 lives Nov. 28, 1942.

'Raging Inferno'

Lawrence T White, 27, a Boston fireman who was burned on arms and hands said when he went below decks he found "a raging inferno." White said he went down two decks and "anybody below there was a goner."

Navy fireman Elwood Rawlings, who went aboard the carrier with respirators from the carrier Salerno Bay tied alongside, said "Nobody was alive when we arrived. Fumes were heavy and smoke thick.

"Sailors and civilian firemen were staggering out on all sides with lifeless bodies. As we groped through the smoke we came across two unrecognizable bodies—charred black. We knew our respirator apparatus would be of no help to them."

Trapped in Storeroom

Salvatore Impeduglia, of Boston, a civilian welder, said he and three other men were trapped by flames for two and a half hours in a storeroom.

The fire raged for more than three hours. It was under control at 6:30 but it was not until 7:59 that Boston Fire Chief John V. Stapleton sent the all-out signal.

Officers notified Corpus Christi police and the cash was seized there when a plane landed.

Picked up last night was Lester Fletcher, 51, at whose Lima home Anderson had been visiting, but officers said they believe Fletcher was not implicated in the burglary.

Fletcher, who said he and Anderson served together in the Iowa National Guard in the 1920s, told police Anderson had checked the suitcase at the express agency. Police found the money in bundles of $5, $10, $20 and $50 bills.

Anderson told officers he operates the Anderson Cemical Co of Burlington, Iowa, and Santa Ana, Calif., which markets a rug cleaner by house-to-house sales.

Convicts' 'Reasons' Called Excuses

Ohio Prison Riot Spontaneous, Patrol Report Says

By BILL TERRY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — What caused the half-million dollar riot at Ohio Penitentiary one year ago this month?

What are the chances another riot will break out, with convicts burning buildings and throwing steel bars at guards?

The State Highway Patrol issued a 540-page report on the riot and said it was spontaneous. It listed five reasons given by 82 interviewed convicts, but added they were excuses, not true reasons.

The convicts said they got enough prison food but that it wasn't very tasty. They declared the parole system was too strict, mail privileges were not liberal enough; guards were too strict, and that they weren't getting paid enough for working in prison factories.

Food Warning

As to food, one rioter shouted during the uprising:

"We gave 'em warning a couple of months ago. We picked up our trays and made a lot of racket." Another said: "Next morning we got ham, too. But we ain't had nothing but beans and cornbread since. And rotten coffee."

Warden Ralph W. Alvis got a new food supervisor who prepares more tasty food. Many prisoners still work in the kitchens, and some unappetizing food can be traced to mistakes they make in seasoning.

Alvis has put on more guards, as have wardens in other penal institutions. He also has trained special riot control squads. Guards also receive more pay than one year ago.

So do the convicts for work they do in the cotton mill, machine shop, woolen mill, planing mill, knitting mill, tobacco factory, on maintenance gangs, in offices, and elsewhere within the prison.

A year ago, they could earn from ½ cent to 5 cents an hour, depending on their behavior, whether they were married, and length of time in prison. Now they can earn from 4 to 8½ cents an hour and can spend 2 cents of their hourly earnings for daily needs.

2,601 Took Part

The highway patrol said 2,601 prisoners took part in the riot at various times and named 12 riot leaders and 67 "secondary rioters."

Last year was a year of unrest in prisons throughout the country. There were 21 disturbances, and the Ohio Penitentiary riot was No. 20 on the list. On Sept. 8, 1952, there was a riot at the federal reformatory at Chillicothe. So far this year there have been 15 prison disturbances throughout the country.

Prison riots seem to be catching, like panty raids on women's dormitories in colleges or reports of flying saucers.

When you walk through the prison courtyard, you don't see many smiling faces. The convicts aren't there because they like it. Obviously, they're not well-adjusted people. And being in a greatly overcrowded prison doesn't make them any happier.

Today there are about 4,000 prisoners within the prison walls and another 800 at honor camps. There should be just 2,400 prisoners at the most inside Ohio Penitentiary.

Effects of Overcrowding

What does overcrowding mean? The answers come from Alvis and Arthur L. Glattke, commissioner of corrections, and M. C. Koblentz, assistant commissioner of corrections.

"It means 600 men are forced to be idle, because we don't have enough work to go around," Alvis said. "That's bad. It means four men in one cell meant for two, and two men in a cell where there should be one, double instead of single bunks in dormitories, places that could be workshops being used as sleeping quarters."

Despite all the prison shops that make things for governmental institutions, and where your automobile tags are stamped out, there still aren't enough jobs for all prisoners. The factories were back in use last Nov. 7, a week after the riot began.

"Overcrowding is not fair to prison administrators and at the same time retards the rehabilitation of the inmates," Glattke and Koblentz said. "About 95 per cent of our prisoners rejoin society."

Marion Center Is Key

Glattke and Koblentz say overcrowding will be eliminated by sometime in 1955 when a huge prison expansion program is completed. Key to the solution is the State Training Center now being built at Marion.

The last session of the legislature tackled the prison problem early. It appropriated 8½ million dollars for prison projects, and now practically all are under construction. Other millions appropriated before add to the total.

The Marion project alone amounts to 8¼ million and a 3¼ million building will be done early in 1954. But it won't be equipped until the second unit is finished, probably early in 1955.

"We've been advocating the prison construction program for a long time," Koblentz said, "the riot made the legislators more aware of our problems."

Ohio Penitentiary overcrowding will be relieved by shifting of prisoners. The training center will be able to handle 1,500 inmates. There are 2,300 inmates at the Mansfield Reformatory now.

Here's how the shifting of prisoners will work as Glattke and Koblentz see it:

"Ohio Penitentiary will remain the 'Alcatraz' for hardened prisoners. We can handle 2,400 there very easily.

Reception Center

"Inside the prison there will be a separate reception center where all new inmates will be interviewed to determine what type of institution they belong in. Some will go to Mansfield, which will become an intermediate prison. Some will go to the Lima State Hospital for the Criminally Insane. Others will go to the new training center. Still others eventually will end up in branch prisons or honor camps, of which Ohio has 13."

Under construction now are two dormitories at branch prisons and a unit at Lima State Hospital, which will take care of about 500 prisoners now at Ohio Penitentiary. Also, some Mansfield Reformatory inmates will be transferred to Marion.

Despite its overcrowding, Ohio Penitentiary is praised by men who know prisons best: prisoners who are in and out of penitentiaries the country over. A veteran guard says, "We get bad actors from all over the country. Some spend more time in prison than out. They say this is the best prison they've ever been in."

He added Alvis has made wonderful strides in preventing unrest and that conditions are "just the opposite" of what they were before Alvis took over on Feb. 23, 1948.

Parade in Bucyrus Tonight Will End Sesqui Celebration

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS — A giant historical parade, featuring more than 50 floats and about a dozen bands, will windup this city's week-long observance of Ohio's sesquicentennial tonight.

Parade Marshal Glenn Senseney said the parade will move through the business district, starting at 8 p.m. Members of Bucyrus' 50-year Club, composed of citizens who have followed the same occupation here at least a half century, will be guests of honor on the parade reviewing stand on Washington Square.

Alternate dates, in case of rain, are Sunday afternoon and Monday night.

In addition to floats, depicting various phases of the city's history, there will be 13 pieces of equipment from the field artillery unit of the Ohio National Guard, stationed here.

Another feature will be seven pieces of equipment from the fire department, many of ancient vintage.

Reigning as Bucyrus High School's Sesquicentennial Queen and occupying a prominent spot in the parade will be Karen Kline, a junior and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kline. Eleven Crawford county rural high school girls, who were junior fair queen candidates last August, also will be in the parade.

The closing day of the Sesquicentennial celebration has been proclaimed officially by Mayor Frank P. Siller as "Norton Day" in honor of the Norton family, which has been active in Bucyrus civic and business life since the city was founded in 1819. Arthur J. Norton, 71, a great-grandson of Samuel Norton, founder of the city, will be on the reviewing stand. His son, Edwin, is Bucyrus chairman for the celebration.

Marion Man Charged With Automobile Theft

One of two Marion men who were being held by city police here on an open charge for investigation of theft of an automobile from Irwin, O., has been turned over to Union County authorities on a warrant for auto theft.

Police Chief Tom Coon today said Billy Ray Adams, 21, of Silver St. admitted he stole the car.

The other Marion man was charged with intoxication but was absolved of the theft, Chief Coon said.

United Appeals Campaign Facts

Q. Are salaries too high?

A. The fact is, salaries of those who administer important agencies and of those who render highly skilled services are relatively low. Actually, the salary of a professional worker who works with the probelms of families and children and applies special skills in working with youth, acquired through years of training and experience, represents a community service calculated to make this a better community for all. Efficient replacements are harder to get.

Ike

vated people, to use Eisenhower's own phrase, would have it.

Chats About Cattle

The chief executive spoke from a floodlit outdoor platform surmounted by a full size, full color figure of a Hereford bull. Mostly, the President—who spent part of his boyhood on a farm—just chatted with his audience about cattle.

"You know," he said, "the old scrub cattle on the prairie began to disappear when I was a very young boy. There were all sorts of new breeds appearing — short horns, Angus, this white face—and the Galloway—whatever has happened to the Galloway? He was a big black cow, you know, bigger than that Angus, and sort of woolly-haired. And the people who advocated him said he was going to give a lot of milk and a lot of beef, too, and was going to be a better cow than any of the rest.

"But the white face seems, at least, in this section, to have taken over very greatly. . ."

Recalls Scrub Cow

Again in a reminiscent mood, Eisenhower said "those of us, in those days when I was undoubtedly reflecting the opinion of my elders, because I certainly didn't have any opinion myself about the matter, confidently talked about the fact that the old scrub range cow would always hold its own, that these now-fangled, fancy animals coming in from abroad and elsewhere just didn't have what it took to make a living in the short-[illegible] grass country.

"Well, it shows you how wrong people can be, when they prophesy against progress. Those few herds that were scattered all through this country, down through Oklahoma and all of the other regions around here, multiplied until if they were not all white face, they are all blooded cows. . ."

The president also said:

"If cattlemen are in trouble, and certainly in the drought—and all over—they are, it is not merely the cattlemen that the government and all the rest of us must think about. We must think about the welfare of all the United States. We must approach all our problems in that way."

postponed a decision when West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer objected to the offer being made at this time. Adenauer expressed fear that it would delay further French ratification of the prospoed six-nation European Defense Community (EDC) treaty. The EDC provides for limited rearmament of Germany.

Although the idea of such a pact — first broached by Britain's Prime Minister Churchill — has gained some favor with Dulles and Bidault, recent dispatches from Moscow said Western diplomats there were skeptical about its reception by the Kremlin.

These diplomats were said to doubt that the Russians would accept even the anticipated bid for a four-power conference on Germany, asserting that the Soviets do not appear particularly anxious to talk with the West now on any [illegible] level.

Israeli Discussion

The Israeli-Jordan border explosion item also was a holdover from last night when Eden introduced a motion calling on all three nations to haul the Israeli government before the Security Council.

A British spokesman said the three ministers had taken a very "grave view" of the situation but Dulles reportedly was not too enthusiastic about the proposal to bring it before the Security Council.

Informants said Eden asserted the Israeli attack Wednesday night endangered the peace of the Middle East, and recalled a 1950 declaration pledging the integrity of existing frontiers in the region.

The ministers decided to sleep on the matter and discuss it again during today's review of all Mid-East questions, including the Iranian oil problem and the long British-Egyptian negotiations over the future of the Suez Canal zone.

Iran Oil Rumors

As the Iranian oil issue came up, rumors circulated in Britain that the London government already has contacted the new Iranian regime headed by Premier Fazollah Zahedi in a bid to get oil started flowing again from the now-nationalized concessions of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co.

On Trieste, the ministers had before them Yugoslav President Tito's proposal for an American, British, Italian, Yugoslav parley on the future of the whole free territory.

Despite their reported agreement to stand on the previous decision to turn over Zone A — including the port city of Trieste — to Italy, they were said to have decided that British-American occupation troops must stay in the zone until tempers cool.

It is estimated that nearly 260,000 U.S. firms advertise through the use of match books.

burned over 90 per cent of his body. They said he wasn't in pain because nerve endings had been burned. They placed his name on the danger list.

Some workmen and sailors aboard the Leyte said they heard no explosion; just the fire whistle. Others described the blast as loud.

Welder Is Lucky

Salvatore Impeduglia, a civilian welder from Boston who escaped unscratched described himself as lucky—and no one disagreed with him.

"I was in a storeroom with three other men at the time for the explosion," he said. "We had just finished our work and had cleaned up. Then we heard the explosion.

"Seconds later flames came roaring through the small compartment where we were. The fire drove us back. We got down on the floor and opened several air tanks to get some air.

"We were in that compartment for two and a half hours.

Yelled For Help

"How did we live?" We pounded at the compartment bulkhead. We yelled for help as loud as we could. I prayed throughout the time we were trapped there.

"The lights in the compartment went out. We were in darkness for what seemed like a mighty long time. We were really lucky guys when the rescuers reached us."

Impeduglia described two explosions—first a loud one and seconds later a shorter one.

"It was terrible being in there and not knowing what would happen. I don't ever want to go through such an experience again, believe me."

'Horrible' Scene

Twenty-one year old Frank Garavuso of Brooklyn, on watch in the engine room, recalled the scene below decks as "horrible."

"I heard no explosion," he said. "I heard the fire whistle and then saw the smoke.

"Smoke in the compartment was so thick you couldn't see your hand in front of you. It was horrible. Men in there were burnt to a crisp.

"I couldn't get one hatch cover open because there were two dead men on the other side. It was horrible. They must have smothered trying to open the hatch to escape."

The Navy corpsman who sounded the alarm for doctors and ambulances said he didn't hear the blast. Jud Price of Seneca, Kan., said he was in sick bay when someone told him.

"Then I went down and started helping the corpsmen on duty. Sick bay was pretty crowded."

POWs

originally scheduled to meet with the Communist explainers today.

The third day of explanation — delayed a day after North Korean POWS refused to leave their compounds and threatened a mass breakout Friday—got under way six hours.

The Reds had asked first that Chinese be brought to the explanation centers, then changed their minds and asked instead for North Koreans.

The request was turned down by the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission (NNRC) because it was too late. The Reds showed up anyway with Koreans explainers and were forced to send back for Chinese.

The Chinese moved quietly to the explanation center, in sharp contrast to 500 of their countrymen who were brought in Thursday only after a show of force by their Indian guards. Of those 500 interviewed Thursday—the first day of the explanations—only 10 asked to be returned to communism.

It was a sharp blow to the Red contention that all the POWS were being held by Allied force.

Although the POWS interviewed Saturday offered no resistance in moving from their stockades to holding stations near the explanation center, they reacted violently once inside the interview tents.

Junior Order Mechanics Post Goes to Area Man

William F. Naufzinger of Bucyrus, has been appointed district deputy state councilor of the newly-created 13th Ohio District of the Junior Order United American Mechanics, according to an announcement by Harry E. Fetter, Springfield, state councilor of the century-old fraternal organization.

Naufzinger, a past state councilor of the group, will coordinate activities of local councils in Marion, Crawford and Seneca Counties. Local councils under his jurisdiction include those at Marion, Galion, Bucyrus and Tiffin.

Fetter said that the district was created as part of a statewide administrative reorganization which resulted in the creation of 34 districts and divisions as compared with 17 districts formerly.

Naufzinger, a member of the fraternal order for the past 45 years, is a member of Bucyrus council. He is associated with the Thew Shovel Co.

PRISON PREFERRED

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UP)—Robert E Brassell, convict who gained fame as the master of ceremonies of the Prisonaires, a group of singing inmates, wanted to go free but remain as head of the prison songsters. The parole board told him he could have his freedom, if he would leave the state. Brassell, 37, declined, saying he wanted to remain here "with all the fine contacts I have made."

short distance from the western entrance to the turnpike.

Last night Sheperd saw Wable face to face. He told police Wable was the man he saw near his truck after the shooting while he was semi-conscious.

Wable was taken on a tour of the turnpike before his arraignment on the murder charges. Police said he pointed out the exact spots of the slayings, but insisted he had just "participated" and that a man "Parks" from Pittsburgh was the triggerman.

Skeptical officers said they checked his story and that they can find no evidence anyone else was involved.

YOUR HOME . . . Today and Tomorrow

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

The average householder is very familiar with the irritating noise in water pipes—usually referred to as "hammering." Actually, the technical name for the nuisance is "water-hammer." The cause is one of two things: either there is a loose washer in one of the faucets which vibrates and sets up the hammering, or the pipe system has too many abrupt turns. It is easy to understand that a volume of water under 70 pounds pressure which is rushing through a pipe will slam up against the back of an elbow when the pressure is suddenly cut off. That is exactly what happens when you shut off a valve or faucet which has been running wide open.

There are two methods of curing this trouble. One consists of installing an anti-knock coil. This device is simply a coil of copper tubing inserted at some point in the water line and designed so that the water in the coil acts as a cushion to take up the blow. The second method of curing the trouble is more of a home made idea and has been used by plumbers for years before the anti-knock coil was invented. This scheme consists of substituting a tee fitting where the pipe makes a turn, in place of the usual elbow fitting. A length of pipe about eight inches long is screwed into the straight run of the tee and is then capped, thus presenting a nice cushion to take up the water hammer. One or two of these alterations is usually enough to quiet down a noisy piping system.

In houses where a very high pressure exists it is an excellent idea to install these pressure chambers as a precaution against future trouble. All the fittings necessary should be available for about one dollar.

Aid for the Ailing House

By ROGER WHITMAN

Q: My roof is covered with extra-heavy asphalt shingles laid over a felt base. The shingles were installed as recommended by the manufacturer. I noticed last winter a heaving and curling of the shingles. The roof boards seemed to swell up and become wet also mold appeared in some areas. I cannot account for the excessive dampness since I have ventilators in each gable.

A.: I suspect that the ventilators are not large enough to keep the attic area dry. At least one square foot of louvre opening should be allowed for each three hundred square feet of attic floor space. You should also have open spaces or small vents installed at the eaves to create thorough air circulation. The dampness in the attic causes the boards to swell and this in turn will cause the shingles to become deformed particularly if the nails holding the shingles have been driven in two different boards. I feel quite certain that with a dry attic your shingles will keep their proper shape. An effort should be made to minimize the percentage of humidity in the rooms below during the winter season. In other words ventilate the laundry room if clothes are dried indoors use an exhaust fan in the kitchen when cooking and ventilate the bathroom after baths and showers are taken.

Q. We have a new birch unfinished interior door on which we accidentally spilled lubricating oil. How can we remove the oil before finishing the door?

A.: Make a paste of carbon tetrachloride over a noninflammable spot remover and powdered whiting and spread this over the stain in a thick layer and allow to remain until dry. After brushing off the powder, if some discoloration remains, repeat the treatment.

Q.: I have some new birch cabinets in my kitchen and I would like to finish them to preserve the natural wood appearance. What do you recommend?

A.: The cabinets can be finished with clear lacquer preferably sprayed on. If this is not possible then finish the cabinets with a good grade of clear varnish. Two coats of varnish will be necessary. After the first coat is hard and dry, smooth the surface by rubbing lightly with 0000 sandpaper and wipe off the dust then apply the second coat. The lacquer coating will give you a slightly lighter finish than varnish.

Q. Should a pipe go down inside a chimney to the gas furnace? We have had our gas furnace three years now and have had no trouble on the chimney wall inside the house. Some friends have had trouble with their chimney sweating and ruining paint and wallpaper. If a pipe should be used, please advise what kind to use.

A. If you have had no trouble with the chimney in three years time I doubt if any will develop in the future. It is probable that when the house was built an air space was created between the chimney and the plaster wall thus eliminating the possibility of condensation.

Quality Gives Professional Touch

Home Painters Warned To Avoid Cheap Brushes

Give your paint job the brush off with a lack of know-how about brushes and—well, you'll wish you brushed up on this subject. You can dip the cat's tail into a can of shellac, but undoubtedly you'll be the one to get the shellacking—not the surface you're working on

The brush you use for each paint job, and how you use it, are as important as the quality of paint — and sometimes more so You can get a can of paint for a small job for a buck or two and ruin a brush that costs three or four times that much. Or you can use a cheap brush and ruin the job.

From experience, we can say that the only sensible use for a cheap little brush is to apply tree paint to a bulldozer scar—and for that a paddle is acceptable.

Good Brush Needed

A good paint brush is one of the finest of tools At the same time, it is one of the most complicated to handle To get the best results, you can use a brush only for the jobs for which it is made—a flat brush for flat surfaces, a round or oval brush for round surfaces, a narrow brush for small surfaces and tight places And it's up to you to take care of your brushes

A good painter, one worthy of being called a decorator, one who works in homes where woodwork is treated like furniture, will use an old brush for the first and second coats and a new brush for the finish coat But that new brush will not be the way it came out of the store It will be cured and possibly broken in

All new brushes are bound to have a few loose bristles. You can bring these out in two ways First twirl the handle rapidly between your hands. Second, after preparing the brush by an oil soak, paint a dozen strokes or so across a rough surface. This trial course will bring out any loose hairs that didn't show up in the dry run.

The oil bath is very important to a new brush. It will lengthen the life of the brush, make it easier to clean and improve its working qualities by preventing the porous bristles from absorbing harmful pigment particles or thinners.

Christen Brush in Oil

Here's how to give a new paint brush its christening in oil. This is a method recommended by the Paint and Varnish Brush Division of the American Brush Manufacturers Association. It is prescribed for bristle brushes as well as those of bristle and synthetic fiber mixtures.

Take a piece of heavy wrapping paper about five times the width of the brush and twice the length of the bristles plus the metal or leather ferrule. Fold the paper around the width of the brush Then fold the paper from the edge of the bristle back to the top of the ferrule, being careful not to bend the bristle Cellulose tape will hold the ends of the wrapper together.

Hang the wrapped brush in a container of raw linseed oil supporting the handle to keep the brush upright. The oil should be deep enough to cover the wrapper and flow into it, so the full length of the bristle will be soaked.

The brush is left in this bath for 24 hours. But the longer it stays in the oil, the better.

Brush Needs Rubdown

Since washing is only part of a bath, this baby requires a rub down Stretch a wire across the top of the can and draw the flat side of the bristles against it to remove the oil. Or hold the brush on a clean flat surface and squeeze the oil out with a round stick or screw driver.

Another twirl is now in order Hold the brush in a clean empty can and give it a spin between the hands to throw off remaining oil Then rinse it in turpentine, dipping it several times A third twirl will remove the turps

When you are sure the bristles are dry, comb them and smooth them into their original shape with a steel comb.

Now you have a brush that will stay flexible and give you faster and smoother spreading of paint. But try it out on that rough surface for any remaining loose bristles.

Martin Bormann May Be Red Spy

Disappearance of Nazi Leader Remains a Mystery

By ANTONY TERRY

BERLIN (NANA) — Eight years ago a stocky man, dressed in the dark blue uniform and jackboots of a high Nazi party official, crept through the blackened ruins of Berlin with a tommygun in his hand. His uniform was dirty and rumpled and his flabby face gray with exhaustion.

The time was 2 a.m. on May 2, 1945—a week before V-E Day. The man was Martin Bormann—the second most powerful man in Nazi Germany.

Bormann was accompanied by a motley drunken rabble as he stumbled over blocks of masonry and over the bodies of soldiers who had died defending the Fuehrer's last underground air raid shelter in the center of what is today Berlin's Soviet sector.

Bormann vanished completely. Officially the mystery is just as unsolved today as it was the night Bormann and his friends tried to smash their way through the Russians, aided by the last three tanks which had been defending Hitler's bunker.

One of the tanks was blown up by a Russian "bazooka." The other two plunged on and were captured. But Bormann was not with them. He and a small group had taken refuge in a ruined building to escape the Russian fire.

UNOFFICIALLY Bormann's subsequent fate and his present whereabouts occupy much space in the secret files of Western intelligence agencies.

Research into his disappearance started when the Russians failed to announce the discovery of his body. Then a suspicion—whispered at first—began to crystalize in the minds of Allied security men: that Bormann had either been taken prisoner by the Russians or had sought and found refuge with them rather than escape to the West.

Today some Allied intelligence agencies claim to have definite evidence that Bormann was a Soviet spy—the greatest master spy of all time—who was actually working for Stalin all the time he was acting the part of the most fanatical and brutal Nazi in Germany. They are convinced that he is today working for the Soviets' worldwide espionage network—a branch of the organization which successfully spirited away the Englishmen Burgess and MacLean, and Mrs. MacLean.

One thing is certain—the man Western intelligence men believe is Bormann is today one of the Kremlin's master spies. He has appeared all over the world during the last five years. Efforts by Allied security officials to seize him have have failed a score of times.

WHETHER OR NOT the "Bormann" who today puzzles Western counterespionage is the same Nazi leader who escaped from Hitler's headquarters in May, 1945, there is no doubt that he does have direct and personal contacts with the family and friends of the one-time Nazi leader.

I discovered this six months ago when I was following up the Bormann trial in East Germany. Tipped off that Bormann's girl friend, Anneliese Pflum, a former official of the pro-Hitler "League of German Girls," was living in East Germany and expecting a visit from her mysterious friend, I made arrangements to get a snapshot of Bormann which she had taken during one of his previous visits to see her in 1951.

Anneliese, who is today just as fanatical a Communists as she was once a Nazi, kept the picture in her home. A go-between managed to get hold of it for a week end—to bring it to Berlin.

But before the deal could come off the East German Communist secret police struck. In a midnight raid they arrested three people. All had been in some way concerned in the business of the Bormann picture. None of them ever reappeared.

HERE IS THE current opinion of a senior member of Germany's newly formed and efficient "M15": "Bormann worked for a time after the war on the staff of Beria, Stalin's ex-secret police chief. Today, after Beria's downfall, Bormann has been attached to the Soviet foreign ministry.

"For us there is no doubt that he is alive and working for the Russians. He hates the West just as intensely as he did when he was the power behind Hitler's elbow."

Bormann's fate and whereabouts remain one of the unsolved mysteries of postwar Germany. But evidence that he is alive continues to accumulate in the intelligence files.

Could it be that Moscow intends to produce him one day as the "Fuehrer" of a pro-Soviet Germany—with the backing of Hitler's last will and testament?

Harding Handed First Loss; St. Mary Wins Fourth

Columbus Central Spoils Prexy Homecoming 20-13

By JOHN SHORT

Harding High School went down to its first defeat of the football campaign last night to a comeback crew from Central High School in Columbus. The visitors handed the Prexies a 20-13 setback before a capacity homecoming crowd.

The Prexies were defeated after coming from behind to knot the count at 13-13 late in the third period. The squad, coached by Dave Parks, however, powered back to regain the lead in less than one minute of play.

Central jumped into a 7-0 lead the first time it gained possession and Harding was never in the lead. After receiving the opening kickoff, Harding was able to pick up only nine yards and Tom Hazen punted to the Columbus 31.

Joe Morland and Don Harris combined to lug the ball to the 46 from where a double lateral with Gene Bennett carrying gave the Pirates a first down at the Harding 25 Bennett nearly broke into the open but a last-minute tackle by Gary Huber brought him down. Morland skirted end to the five and a delaying penalty against Harding moved the ball to the one-yard marker. Bennett failed to score but Morland plunged over on his next attempt. Larry Edington converted and Harding was behind for the first time this year.

Early in the third period, Gary Ballinger hit paydirt for Harding when he went over from the four to climax a 48-yard march. The drive was started when Gene Armstrong returned a Columbus punt 30 yards into Central territory. A roughing penalty aided the Harding team and gave it a first down at the 20 Chet King and Joe Albinack picked up to the 16 from where Ballinger went to the six on an end run. King picked up two before Ballinger scored. John Obenour missed the try for point.

Central came back on the next series of downs to stretch its lead. Bennett returned the kickoff from the 15 to the 34. After being temporarily halted, Bennett hit Don Harris with a pass at the Harding 40 and he raced to the 13 before being dragged down by Fred Price. Bob Prater stopped Morland at the six and Bob Hamor held him to one before he went over from the five. Edington missed the conversion try.

Harding, showing signs of coming to life, came back to a drive of its own. Ballinger bobbled the kickoff momentarily but recovered it at the Prexy 16 and before he was dropped had powered his way back to the 46. Don Schweinfurth hit Bob Stauffer for eight yards to enter Pirate territory. Ballinger, King and Albinack handled the long distance work and moved the ball to the one - yard stripe from where Price sneaked over. Obenour split the uprights to knot the count at 13-all with a minute to play in the third period.

Gene Armstrong kicked off to Jim Carmon at the 20 and he carried back 18 yards to the 38. On the first play from scrimmage, Bennett hit Don Harris at the Harding 30 and he raced all the way to the end zone to regain the lead for Central. Edington kicked the point to end the scoring at 20-13.

With five minutes left in the game, Harding gained possession on its 40 and began driving for the needed score. Ballinger was shaken up on the second play of the drive but returned to action after a brief rest. Staying mainly on the ground, the Prexies drove to the Central 39 in their race against the clock. A three-yard loss and an incompleted pass stopped the march and Central froze the ball for the remaining minute and a half of play.

An interference call by the officials against Harding in the first half brought a storm of protest from the partisan fans. Several left the stadium still thinking a pesalty should have been stepped off against Central.

The Central drum major strutted so hard during the halftime show the blood red plume fell from his hat. It fell directly on the 50-yard mark. Some fans, who failed to see it fall, thought one of the officials had dropped his warning flag.

—:—

The 'old Grads' at the homecoming game received a double thrill at the half. Central's band wound up its performance with the Pirates' alma mater and Harding's band did the same The songs were the same.

—:—

Fremont Ross, Harding's opponent on Nov. 6 was scouting the Prexies last night. Three scouts moved into the press box and were impressed by the Harding squad. They chatted every play used by the Prexies.

Annual Homecoming Observance Held at Harding Game

Anna Fairchild Crowned Queen; Mrs. Symes Wins Watch

By MIKE HUBER

Last night's perfect football weather drew a capacity crowd of some 3,500 to Harding Stadium where Anna Fairchild reigned over homecoming ceremonies.

Only the outcome of the game ruined an otherwise perfect evening for Harding students, alumni and friends.

Highlight of the pre-game ceremonies was the crowning of Miss Fairchild as 1953 homecoming queen. A member of the football squad, Bob Hamor, did the honors on behalf of the student body.

Another highlight was the search for the oldest graduate at the game. The honor went to Mrs. Wilbur Symes of Uhler Rd., a member of the class of 1901 at the old Marion High School. She was the former Miss Dessie Gregory.

During the half-time ceremonies, Lester L. Dickey presented Mrs. Symes with a watch donated by Carroll's Jewelry Store.

The activities got underway shortly after 7:30 when the queen and her attendents entered from the south entrance, each riding in a convertible donated by a local automobile dealer.

Each car circled the track and stopped in front of the Harding stands. Each member of the court was then escorted onto the field into the center of a large heart formed by the Harding band.

It was here that the coronation took place.

After the crowning, Evelyn Price sang the Harding Sweetheart song, words composed by Mary Lou Swigart, a member of the class of 1949.

On behalf of herself and her court, Miss Fairchild gave a short speech of welcome and thanks to those who had made possible what she described as the "happiest moment" of their lives.

Attendents on the regal court and their escorts were Phyllis Albert and Ted Simmons, Rosemary Baxter and Jim Whaley, Sherry Caris and Joe Albinack, and Carolyn Jones and Ron Conroy.

The court watched the game from a special platform at the 30-yard line.

Columbus Central's band opened the half time ceremonies with an exhibition based on the theme "Say it with Music," forming an E-cleft and musical instruments and playing a medley ranging from "Strummin' on the Old Banjo" to Reveille.

The Central band also formed an MH in honor of Harding and wound up with a revolving block C, playing the Central fight song, and a CH for the Central alma mater.

Harding band based its exhibition on the theme "Kiddie Kapers." Playing a medely of childhood tunes, the group went into such formations as a rocking cradle and a clock with moving hands and pendlum.

Two of the band's most spectacular formations were done with all stadium lights turned out and small lights on the band members' caps. Under these circumstances the band formed a star to play "When You Wish Upon a Star" and a fiddle with moving bow for "The Cow Jumped over the Moon."

Before moving off the field to the tune of "Good Night, Ladies," the band formed an H for the Harding fight song and alma mater.

After the game the annual homecoming dance was held in the Harding High School lunchroom. The Tri-Hi-Y and Hi-Y Clubs of Harding sponsored the dance.

Four Injured in Rugged Game, Irish on Top 20-0

By GARY SAMS

St. Mary's undefeated Irish kept their goal line uncrossed in a 20-0 win over Columbus St. Mary, their fourth of the season, before a Parents night crowd at Columbus Friday night. It marked the locals' first appearance away from home.

The contest was marred by injuries to four Irish linemen. Coach Ray Robbins after the game said it was the roughest game he had seen.

Bob Campton suffered a possible fractured jaw, Ray said. X-rays are to be taken to discover if his injury is that serious. Ed Quinn, John Kelly and Chuck Mitchell also were banged up around their mouths. Pat O'Connor of the locals and John Casey, Columbus St. Mary guard, were ejected from the game by the officials for unnecessary roughness.

The locals punched over two second period touchdowns and another early in the third quarter and the Irish defense stopped the losers' attempted thrusts into their end zone during the second half for the fourth shutout win of the campaign.

Neither team was able to start a drive until John Messenger returned an enemy punt to the Columbus St. Mary 34-yard stripe late in the opening quarter. Larry Ryan was rocked for a four yard loss but then Messenger carried to the 35. After a Roger Micheli-to-Pat-O'Connor pass fell incomplete, Micheli hit Don Shoemaker at the losers' 19. A fumble at the 18 halted the Irish advance.

However, on the losers' third play of the following series, Mike Anderson intercepted an enemy pass at the Columbus 35 and ran it back to the 11. Then three plays into the second quarter, Anderson scored from six yards out. Jerry Ballenger's extra point attempt was no good. Recovery of a Bob Paullus fumble at the Irish 43 by Ed Quinn on a fourth down play early in the quarter had stopped the losers.

The Irish defense held Columbus, and the locals began a drive for their second tally after the punt was downed at the Irish 29 Anderson plowed for three and Micheli hit Messenger with a pass which advanced the ball to midfield. Micheli threw incomplete but then connected to Messenger on a screen pass which carried the ball to the 23. Anderson in two carries picked up five yards and then he took an aerial from Micheli and ran to the eight before being knocked out of bounds. Ted Kilbury went for no gain and then Anderson took a pitchout from Micheli to skirt end for the second Irish score. This time Ballenger's kick was good.

The locals were in Columbus territory again as the half closed when Messenger made a circus catch interception of a pass by Bob Paullus at the Irish 46. A pass from Micheli to Jack O'Keeffe took the ball to the Columbus 40 and later an unnecessary roughness penalty moved the ball to the 30 but time ran out with Micheli attempting to pass for another first half score.

Coach Robbins' squad completed its scoring with a drive from the 43 beginning the second half. Bob Campton returned the second half kickoff to the 43 and Larry Ryan carred to the 48. Anderson and Ryan then alternated in advancing the ball to the eight yard line. A five-yard penalty moved the ball back out to the 13, from where Micheli passed to Don Shoemaker in the Columbus end zone. Ballenger made it 20-0 with a perfect kick

The Columbus team's attempts to reach paydirt in the second half were stopped by the Irish defense.

The losers moved from their own 35 to the Irish 23 following the locals' touchdown where the locals knocked down two passes by Paullus and Bernie Vogel and rushed Bill Hilsheimer, causing him to throw incomplete.

St. Mary now points to the battle with Richwood at the Stadium next Saturday. Both squads are tied for leadership in the new Mid-Ohio Conference, each with two wins in as many starts.

Buckeyes Heavily Favored Over Penn

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Coach George Munger and his University of Pennsylvania footballers are in for a rough afternoon today against Ohio State, say the experts.

Penn is in the underdog's role after last week's 40-0 pasting by California. Ohio State outscored the Bears two weeks ago, 33-19.

Some 10,000 grid fans are expected at Franklin Field for the meeting of the two eleven, the first in 20 years. They've met twice before and the Buckeyes won both: 19-0 in 1932; 20-7 in 1933.

West Virginia Gridder Dies of Injury in Game

CLAY, W. Va. (AP)—A Clay High School second string back who got into the game in the last quarter when his team led 32-0, was killed last night when tackled while carrying the ball.

Dr. A. A. Smith, a Clay physician said Earl Long, a junior, died at about 10 p. m. shortly after being injured. Dr. Smith said he was not positive of the exact cause of death but it appeared to be a combination of shock and a weak heart.

Alan Kellogg, rugged 6-1, 200-pound defenseman, will be ready for action Sunday afternoon when the Marion Barons play host to Louisville's Shooting Stars at the Coliseum rink.

Kellogg was benched with a throat condition for the opener and Coach Ott Heller was forced to put Center Kenny Schultz at defense. It was Schultz's first fling at the post. Kenton Drops 3rd In League Action

KENTON — Two first period touchdowns was all that Wapakoneta Blume needed to whip Kenton 13-6 before a homecoming crowd at the winners' field Friday night.

Recovery of a fumble by Kenton at the Wapakoneta 30 on a field goal attempt by George Keel's crew started the winners on their first march. Covering 70 yards in six plays, Kuck climaxed the drive with a 20 yard run around right end. Hobler converted.

On the first play following the kickoff, the winners recovered a Wildcat fumble at midfield. They advanced from there to the one from where Walker, on fourth down, went around right end on a bootleg play.

Kenton's lone score came late in the final period. Jim Hogan started the locals on the move with a pass interception at the Kenton 10 and ran to the winners' 45. Moments later, Virgil Deardorff, Kenton fullback, went over from the eight.

Hunters Ready For First Day Of Duck Season

The 1953 waterfowl season opens Monday at noon and many hunters from Marion and the surrounding area are expected to take advantage of its opening at Delaware Dam area. The season extends through Dec. 12

Rodney Smith, assistant supervisor of the Olentangy Wildlife Experiment Station at the Delaware Reservoir, made the announcement today. Shooting hours for waterfowl will be from a half hour before sunrise to sunset. Only requirement for waterfowl hunting at the dam area other than having a hunting license and federal duck stamp, Smith said, is for the hunters to check through a station upon entering and leaving the area each day.

Game management officials of the Ohio Wildlife Division are operating the checking station to compile inland waterfowl statistics and complete migration studies.

Hunters will be given a map of the area and a copy of the waterfowl hunting rules and regulations upon entering the area. The checking station is located about one mile east of Norton on State Route 229 Smith said. The area will be open for pheasant and rabbit hunting on Nov. 16.

An area of 20 acres, located near the mouth of Whetstone Creek, will be set aside for a wildlife refuge and no hunting will be permitted on the refuge.

Cardington Whips Mt. Gilead Squad

CARDINGTON — Cardington notched its first win of the season over a winless Mt. Gilead squad here Friday night 18-7. It was a Mid-Ohio Conference game, and gave the winners a 4-3 edge in their series

A Mt. Gilead fumble at the Cardington 24 started the winners on a drive to the Mt. Gilead end zone. A 37-yard run by Tom Conaway set up the initial Cardington score with Ralph King scoring on a quarterback sneak from inside the five.

Cardington cinched the verdict with two third period scores. John Sellars scored the first from the one on a handoff from the quarterback. Later, Cardingmon moved from its own 46 to the Mt. Gilead 27—largely on a 27-yard pass play from Sallars to Shaffer—and three plays later Jim Snyder went over from two yards out.

Mt. Gilead's only score came late in the final period when Ted Moody swept the Cardington right end for 54 yards. John Staley plunged for the extra point.

Pee Wee Interested

Reese Logical Successor At Brooklyn, Says Dressen

By JOE REICHLER

BROOKLYN (AP) — Charlie Dressen, who gave up a prize major league job with a pennant winner to manage a minor league team, predicted today that Pee Wee Reese will succeed him as manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

"I think Pee Wee is the logical man for the job," said Dressen who forsook the Dodgers yesterday for the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast League. Dressen split with the Dodgers in a dispute over the length of a contract. He had demanded a two-year pact and Brooklyn President Walter O'Malley refused to give him more than a one-year term.

'Of course, I don't know what they'll do,' Dressen added, 'but Reese ought to make them a good manager. If he gets the job, I wish him all the luck in the world and I'll be rooting hard for him. I think the Ddogers will win the pennant again next year especially with Don Newcombe back from the Army."

Newcombe, a 20-game winner with the Dodgers in 1951, is scheduled to be discharged from the service in February.

Reese, veteran shortstop and captain of the Dodgers, is regarded as the top candidate to lead the club next year. If chosen, he will be a playing manager

Although O'Malley insisted he had nobody in mind yet, he said the next Brooklyn manager would have to be active either on the coaching lines or in the field. The Dodger head said he already had received several applications "from some good men" but he did not expect to name the new manager for several weeks.

Reese, reached at his home in Louisville, Ky., said he had not been contacted by anybody in the Dodger organization but hinted he would welcome an opportunity to manage the Dodgers.

"I always said I wouldn't want to manage while I still had some good playing years left," Reese said. "But now, with Dressen gone, it's something to think about.

"I can't say anything else right now except that I'm sorry Dressen and Mr. O'Malley couldn't get together. I'm glad to hear that Charlie is happy. I certainly wish him all the luck in the world wherever he's going to be next year.

"I have no way of knowing whether I'm being considered for the job or not. Nobody from the front office has called me and I certainly haven't called them."

While speculation was going on as to Dressen's likely successor, the baseball public continued to wonder what actually was responsible for the split between the 54-year-old manager and O'Malley. Each declared admiration for the other and both insisted the parting was as amicable as that between two life-long friends.

Insiders insisted, however, that all was not sweetness and light between boss and former employe. Although Dressen expressed happiness over his switch, he still maintained that his feat of bringing home two straight Dodger pennants earned him at least a two-year contract.

"I wanted a long term contract not because I was afraid of being fired next year, but because I wanted to knock down certain radio and newspaper people who kept yelling for my scalp. I felt if I were protected with a two or three contract, I would put an end to the catcalls I've been getting for the last two years."

Medical Research Shows:

It Takes Real Energy To Be a Dreamer

By THOMAS R. HENRY

(North American Newspaper Alliance)

WASHINGTON — Dreams are accompanied by hitherto unobserved movements of the eyeballs under closed lids, changes in brain wave pattern, faster breathing and heart beat, and random tossing about of the sleeper.

By observing these changes it may be possible to measure the duration of dreams. They apparently involve the whole autonomic nervous system which operates below the level of consciousness.

This has been reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science here by Drs. Eugene Aserinsky and Nathaniel Kleitman of the University of Chicago. The movements of the closed eyes were determined by electrical recording devices. Tests were made with 20 normal adults.

"To confirm the conjecture that this particular eye activity was associated with dreaming," the two investigators report, "sleeping individuals were awakened and interrogated during their occurrence and also after a period of from 30 minutes to three hours when they did not occur. Of 27 interrogations during ocular motility 20 revealed detailed dreams, usually involving visual imagery. Others reported the "feeling of having dreamed," but with inability to recall any detail."

None of those awakened and questioned when the movements were absent remembered having any dream.

"The fact," the investigators report, "that these eye movements and autonomic nervous system [illegible] not occur randomly suggests that these physiological phenomena, and probably dreaming, are very likely all manifestations of a particular level of cortical activity which is encountered normally during sleep.

"An eye movement period first appears about three hours after going to sleep, recurs two hours later, and then emerges at somewhat closer intervals a third or fourth time shortly prior to awakening. This method furnishes the means of determining the incidence and duration of periods of dreaming."

NFL Standings Could Change Over Weekend

CLEVELAND (AP)—There are six games on the National Football League's weekend schedule and by the time the final whistle blows tomorrow afternoon the Eastern Division should have an undisputed leader with only one undefeated team.

The Western Division, however, could well be a deadlocked affair for first place unless the pace-setting Detroit Lions chalk up their fourth straight victory at the expense of the Los Angeles Rams

The action gets underway tonight with the Pittsburgh Steelers favored to take the Eagles in camp at Philadelphia and stay in the running for the Eastern Conference title.

The big games are on tap for tomorrow afternoon. In addition to the Lions—Rams scrap at Detroit, undefeated Cleveland and Washington hit head on in the nation's capital with the Eastern Conference lead at stake. Even though the Redskins have been tied once, the league's percentage way of figuring the standings has them tied with the Browns. Cleveland has won three, Washington two.

The Browns present an aerial offense of Otto Graham to Dante Lavelli and Darrell Brewster that'll be hard to beat although Washington's rookie Jack Scarbath is mighty good thrower himself.

Should the Rams whip Detroit, the San Francisco 49ers and Baltimore Colts are in a position to throw the Western Conference lead into a four-way tie.

The 49ers however, face the tough Chicago Bears without their sparkling quarterback Y. A. Tittle, and that fact could well lead to their second defeat in as many weeks

At New York Polo Grounds, the Giants open their home season against the Chicago Cardinals in a battle of winless elevens.

It's Not How, but When

Notes on the Art of Kissing Your Wife

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "Why is it American husbands today don't know how to kiss a wife?" writes a young lady.

"That absent-minded duty peck on the cheek they give you morning and evening is more fitting for a mother than a wife.

"What's wrong with husbands anyway? There's no sparkle to their sparking."

Well, this matrimonial problem sounded so important I polled a group of career husbands on the young lady's criticism. The response was unanimous. To a man they denounced it as a caddish female slur, but mournfully agreed it was no more than a fellow could expect, modern woman being as confused as she is

"The average wife now tries to mother her husband as if he were a dependent child," said one amateur psychologist "Is it any wonder then if he subconsciously gets even by kissing her as if she were the gal who married his dear old dad"

"Mother him nothing—you mean smother him," objected a recent grass widower. "I finally got weaned from mine in a divorce court. The best way to kiss a wife is to kiss her goodbye."

"Well, now let's be fair about this," broke in a third husband. "It isn't really a question of whether we know how to kiss a wife, but whether she will ever learn the right time to be kissed

"A wife doesn't realize how she looks at the breakfast table, dimmed only by the haze rising from a soft boiled egg. It is not exactly her hour of charm The American husband is the gamest guy in history because he is able to face her and give her that peck on the cheek.

"The least she could do is cooperate by providing him with blinders."

"Where else can you kiss them except on the cheek when you go to work?" bristled still another husband. "When I leave, my wife's always got her mouth wide open, yawning—like she was trying out for a role as understudy to the Grand Canyon"

The most sensible kiss at breakfast time, the husbands voted, was the kind that a fellow, going out the front door, can throw back over his shoulder to his soulmate as she stands wistfully waving him godspeed from the other side of the living room.

They also agreed it should be part of the marriage oath that no wife should expect to be kissed when her spouse first returns at eventide to his hearth, footsore and weary from his toil.

"Why should I spend a hard day at the office getting callouses on my hands from patting the boss on the back," demanded a fifth husband, "and then have to bribe my wife with a kiss to get into my own home? It was better in the olden days. Why shouldn't a wife meet her guy at the door with a basin of hot water and bathe his tired feet? Doesn't that make more sense?"

"Hear! hear!" shouted the happy husbands, each of whom admitted privately later he wouldn't dare suggest the idea to his own wife

Every husband was stoutly certain he knew all there was to know about the proper art of kissing a wife. But there was a sharp disagreement as to the right times to do it.

"On honeymoons, weekend, vacations, anniversaries and when the moon is full," said the younger husbands.

"Oh, if you kiss them on the honeymoon, anniversaries and every other St. Valentine's Day — that's enough for the average wife," counseled the older husbands. "You don't want to bore or pamper her by overdoing it, and take all the romance away. Remember, the man who built the Brooklyn Bridge didn't make a nuisance of himself by building 50 more like it."

ANNIE ROONEY — By Darrell McClure

AH, MR. LAWYER— I'M GLAD TO SEE YOU BACK. I'M DYING OF CURIOSITY— DID YOU FIND OUT WHO OWNS THIS OLD, DESERTED HOUSE?
YES AND NO—I FOUND SOMEONE PAYS TAXES ON THE HOUSE EVERY YEAR— THEY SEND THE PAYMENT BY MAIL TO CONCEAL THEIR IDENTITY—
BUT WHY ALL THE MYSTERY??
THAT'S A QUESTION I CANNOT ANSWER— BUT THE PLACE IS A DESERTED RUIN —AND THERE IS NOTHING TO PREVENT YOUR MOVING IN—
WAIT—HERE COMES LITTLE ANNIE —I DON'T WANT HER TO KNOW WHAT I PLAN TO DO—

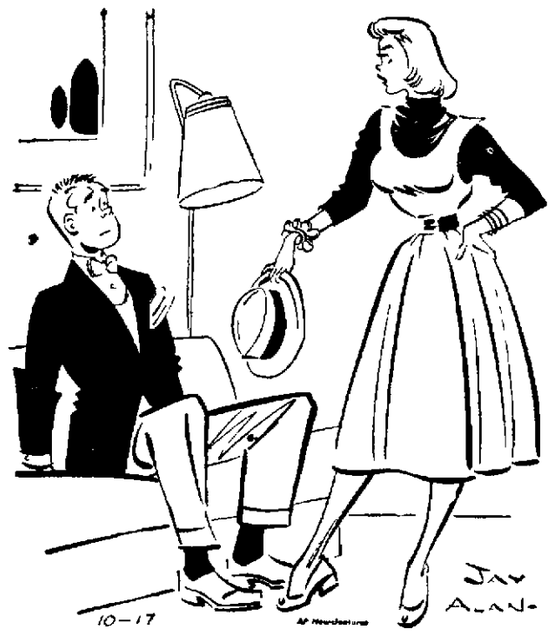
MODEST MAIDENS By Jay Alan



"I know you're destined to go far in this world, Wilbur —and I wish you'd start going right now!"

U.S. Beauty Queen In Center of Fuss Over Paris Styles

PARIS (UP)—A life ambition was achieved at 20 by the former "Miss Dixie" and Florida "Citrus Queen" Carolyn Stroup was a top-flight Paris fashion model during the past summer.

Working for designer Schiaparelli, Carolyn was in on the ground floor of this year's controversial short skirt war and learned the hard way what makes women's styles. She intends to put this knowledge into practice by becoming a fashion designer.

"These short skirts have been exaggerated," she said. "Only some women can wear them, and then they're not bold."

A long haired brunette with cupid's-bow mouth, Carolyn, whose home is at 1901 South Olive Ave., West Palm Beach, Fla., came to Paris accompanying this year's "Citrus Queen."

"I fell in love with the city right away. On an impulse I walked into Madame Schiaparelli's and asked for a job," she said.

Her 35-inch bust, 24 waist and 36 hips did the rest.

"It was my life's ambition to learn fashion designing at the world's fountain - head," Carolyn said.

Paris she found had everything. After work she polished up her French, visited art shows and the Louvre.

Even at her Left Bank lodging house, Carolyn said she found a romantic touch of the past—her landlady is a descendant of Joan of Arc's brother.

The rent was less than $1 a night. Paris models unlike their American sisters, don't earn much money. Carolyn was paid 35,000 francs ($100) a month.

Born in Charlotte, N. C., Carolyn entered and won several beauty contests.

Her first major success — before Paris—came in 1951. Living then in West Palm Beach, she was elected Florida's "Citrus Queen." In 1952 she was named "Miss Dixie" at Daytona Beach.

Her Paris vacation - work - and learn stint ended too soon. She decided to return to school at the University of Florida at Gainesville.

"I've had my ambition now," she said. "It's time for the next one."
